Growing Borough-Township Conflicts Underscore Continuing Need for Consolidation

Like an old married couple who grumble at each other most of the time, yet cannot possibly live apart, Borough and Township are pulling and hauling at each other once again—in this ridiculous, looking-glass world in which there are two Princetons.

"The spirit of co-operation is not exactly at high-tide," was the sharp comment last week of Township Mayor Josie Hall.

"On Council, some people sigh and say, 'Well, what does the Township want NOW?'" complained Borough Council member Richard Woodbridge not long ago.

And all the time, there is time: the endless, duplicating, time-consuming processes that must be gone through before decision. For example, in final negotiations to decide how many sewage gallons should go to each Princeton, Mayor Hall and Borough Council member Nelson van den Blink conferred by telephone. Then each had to return to her own governing body for conference and reaction. Then each had to report to the other...and so on.

Several immediate issues face the two Princetons. Beyond that, there is a list of at least a dozen more.

Besides the sewer allocation, there are:

- Police radio tower: Will the Borough allow the Township, which needs altitude it does not have at low-lying Township Hall, to erect a police radio tower where the present Borough tower is?

- Fire departments: Will the Borough agree to a joint fire department?

- Equity: Can legal agreements be worked out so that the Borough has a legal equity in open-space lands it helped the Township to buy, and the Township a legal equity in fire equipment to the extent that it has made capital contributions?

- Snowden Lane culvert: Who's going to fix it—Tweedledum or Tweedledee?

- Parking at the Dinky Station: One of the newest, and quite possibly, for the long-range future of the whole Princeton community, one of the most important.

Now, tuning back to the police radio antenna

The Township is keenly interested in having the taller tower on the Borough Hall site, but Administrator Joseph R. Nini says, "It's actually not that crucial to us because we have other places—the John Street and Balcort Drive water-towers, Nassau Oil's radio tower, perhaps on top of a University building

"But we felt it lent itself nicely to what we thought was a joint solution to a mutual problem."

WINES OF ISRAEL

Israel produces wine of every type: table wine, dessert wine, sparkling wine, aperitif wine, and all are strictly Kosher. Israel has phased out the naming of wines generically and is now using Hebrew names. The two (2) main wineries are located at Rishon le Zion (near Tel-Aviv) and Zikhron Yaacov (south of Haifa). The rebirth of the wine industry in Israel was made possible by the help of Baron Edmond de Rothschild owner of Chateau Mouton-Rothschild) who gave of his money and also furnished the cuttings to revitalize the vineyards. The market in this country for Kosher wines is quite substantial, and the "Carmel" label is widely distributed. The sparkling wine labelled

"The President's Sparkling Wine" is quite good. The best known wines that are found in almost every store are: Adom Atic (red), Chateau Richon (white), Carmel Hock (white), Rose of Carmel (rose), Carmelita (Sangria), Almog Wine (Malaga) (extra sweet), Concord Grape Wine (extra sweet).

University and Palmer Square Revive Plan For Stores, Apartments on Playhouse Lot

Palmer Square, Inc. is going back to the drawing board it left—publicly, anyway—three or four years ago, and working once again on plans for the parking lot between the Playhouse and the store row on Witherspoon.

"We're thinking of a re-located U-Store, expanded retail services, some more housing," announced Thomas Root, PSI president, to Palmer Square neighbors gathered in the First Baptist Church to hear Princeton Community Housing outline its own plans for senior-citizen housing on the other side of the Playhouse.

Mr. Root said what the audience had already heard from PCH—nothing can be done, and no firm plans made until the Borough decides what to do about the parking garage that is required, to absorb parking from the two Playhouse lots.

In October, Mr. Root said after the meeting, he plans a series of open-houses at the Nassau Inn, where people can come and look at preliminary plans and talk about them. He is already signing up real-estate agents, business executives and townspeople to act as advisors.

"Scale is very important," he emphasized. "We're concerned about 'our town' and we don't want anything large scale. And I'm terribly concerned about style—this would be a quality project."

Parking is crucial. Any construction hits water about eight feet below the surface, thereby eliminating any thought of an un-

Neighbors of Housing Proposed for Palmer Square Question Several Aspects of Details Made Public at Meeting Monday

"Why, those four brick stories are as high as my church roof! I'd be preaching to somebody's rear window!"

The Rev. Edward Smith, First Baptist Church, added, "I'd be looking at a jungle of 'stories.'"

Architect Robert Geddes had just shown colored drawings, which he warned were only concepts and not final plans, of the 128-unit housing for the elderly, proposed by Princeton Community Housing, Inc., for the parking lot area on the west side of the Princeton Playhouse.

PCH invited neighbors of the area to a meeting Monday night in the First Baptist Church, and the reception, while not exactly hostile, was somewhat prickly.

Forty Years Ago. Residents of the John-Witherspoon area remember vividly how their parents and grandparents were displaced 40 years ago when Palmer Square was built. They are sensitive to any suggestion that they might have to look at a building's rear.

They are particularly sensitive to what one resident, Mrs. Kathleen Edwards, 25 Green Street, has always called "a Berlin wall," referring to the possibility that a massive structure might face south, presenting its blank northern wall to people who live around John Street.

But Mr. Geddes explained that he had worked out his concept with precisely these feelings in mind.

derground parking garage for Palmer Square's development.

The fate of the Playhouse itself is another factor. Whether it will remain, or be torn down and its square footage incorporated into Palmer Square's new plans, is as indefinite as all the rest.

"I hope you'll do something beautiful!" exclaimed the Rev. Edward Smith, of First Baptist. "I go up Palmer Square every morning and just grin—it's so nice up there!"

Previous outlines of plans, made in past years, have indicated that any new parking-lot development would indeed resemble the present Palmer Square complex of apartments and shops.

"We've done feasibility studies," Mr. Root says. "It's a desirable project, but we don't have a developer right now, and we don't have up-to-date studies. Once you're committed to studies, you need a target date or they aren't meaningful. What good is a six-year-old traffic study?"

Mr. Root wouldn't comment on the effects Palmer Square's development might have on the Borough's sewer situation. Presumably, Palmer Square's plans are still so far in the future that the state's sewer allocation could have changed dramatically from what it is today.

He went to Monday night's meeting, Mr. Root said, so that neighbors would realize that PCH's housing for the elderly isn't the only change planned for the Playhouse parking lot area.

This Is PRINCETON

"Here is an open walkway, an extension of John Street, right up to Hulfish, lined with trees, well-lit at night," and Mr. Geddes showed slides of a John Street resident walking where that walk-way would be. Right now, it's wall-to-wall with parked cars.

Mr. Geddes' conception has a mix of four-story buildings—planned for areas closest to Paul Robeson Place and Hulfish—with six and eight-story segments in the center, away from where people live.

"It's NOT a jungle of stories," Mr. Geddes replied to the Rev. Mr. Smith, citing the set-back arrangement with lower buildings next to inhabited areas.

The walkway, he continued, would be 30 feet wide, part brick and part trees, wide enough for bikes.

"It eliminates the jungle of cars, which is a negative factor," he commented.

Less Parking Needed. "You're cutting down the parking in an asphalt jungle, developing housing for senior citizens who mostly don't have cars," observed Borough Council member Martin P. Lombardo.

Yota Switzgable, who lives nearby at 7 Greenholm, prodded Mr. Geddes and his associate, William Dix, repeatedly on amenities for tenants.

"You're putting poor people in an area where they cannot afford to buy," she declared. "Where are the shops you'll have in this building?"

Only a drugstore, maybe doctors' or dentists' offices would be economically feasible, Mr. Dix replied dubiously. He assured her that the New Jersey Housing Finance Agency—which will back the project—has minimum size standards for community rooms, laundries and so on.

"The old don't want to be walled in, with their own little shops," protested Jocelyn Helm, who conducts programs for the elderly at Lloyd Terrace. "They want to be where they can see the town." be where they can see the town."

Income Limits Set. PCH's consultant said tenants would be paying 25 percent of their income for rent. Income limits are a maximum of $10,600 for a couple, $9,200 for a single person, he said. At least 30 percent of the units must be for low-income families earning a maximum of $6,600, for a couple, $5,800 for a single person. The project will produce $40,000 in taxes for the Borough.

Audrey Gould, for PCH, said there is a five to six-year wait for apartments in PCH's Holly House—where many singles and elderly live.

"We should expand our thinking beyond brick to human needs," she urged.

When the Rev. Mr. Smith asked, "Why this area?" Mr. Dix said that was what Palmer Square, Inc., had offered to sell.

He and Mr. Geddes em-

University Opens for 232d Academic Year; Enrollment of 5,966 Sets All-Time Record

Princeton University has opened its 232d academic year with record enrollment, two new women deans in major administrative posts and a new provost elevated from the rank of dean.

President William G. Bowen gave the address at the opening exercises in the University Chapel Sunday, and classes began the following day for 5,966 graduate and undergraduate students. The undergraduate enrollment stands at 4,470, the largest ever. The 1,496 graduate students are also a record.

The increase is largely attributable to a greater percentage of acceptances, both of freshmen applicants and of graduate students. The unusually large freshman class numbers 1,137, slightly fewer than the 1,163 original acceptances to the Class of 1981, which had been targeted at 1,115.

Neil Rudenstine, Class of 1956 and former Dean of the College, begins his first academic year as provost. Joan Girgus has assumed her place as Dean of the College, and Nina Garsoian is the new Dean of the Graduate School. Ground has been broken for the controversial new biological sciences building on William Street, but construction, which is to be completed by November of 1978, has not yet begun.

In his remarks at the opening exercises, President

Bowen examined the opportunities, frustrations and obligations that are inherent in the diverse character of the Princeton student body. "The learning environment," he said, is a far richer one when it contains not only individuals who come from cities and rural areas, from different economic backgrounds, from different regions and countries, and who represent a wide array of academic and extracurricular talents and interests, but also women as well as men, students from a wide variety of religious and cultural backgrounds, and persons who bring with them various senses of what it is like to grow up as a member of a racial or ethnic minority in America."

The gallon allotment will be as follows:

- 27,000 to Princeton University for its biochemistry building.
- 10,000 to Princeton Community Housing, Inc., for its proposed 100 apartments units for the elderly on Palmer Square.
- 5,000 for malfunctioning, health-hazardous septic systems
- Of the remaining 22,000 gallons, 11,660 will be allotted to the Township and 10,340 to the Borough. These figures are based on each community's share of the total cost of the sewer—53.97 percent for the Township and 46.03 for the Borough.

The final decision represents a more flexible stance for the Borough than the one reported last Wednesday by Township Mayor Josie Hall, who told Committee that any suggestion to the Borough other than a 50-50 sharing "met with a stone wall."

However, after that Wednesday night meeting, in which Township Committee unanimously agreed to the 50-50 arrangement, (with a more liberal amount for the Township arranged on a long-range basis) discussions began between Mayor Hall and Borough Council's SOC representative, Nelson van den Blink.

Concession Made. Both were urged by the SOC's sanitary engineer, George Olexa, to give a little so that an agreement could be reached at the SOC's Monday meeting, and the Borough did give in, agreeing to the formula described above.

Mr. Olexa has commented that this agreement is satisfactory to the Borough. The proposed Benson Building apartments will require 3,200 gallons. If Timothy Sheehan's 24 apartments are approved by the Zoning Board, they will need 4,800 gallons. This is a total of 8,000 gallons, and means the Borough can also accommodate one malfunctioning septic system, and a property on Linden Lane.

Part of the package also includes a proposal by Mr. Olexa that Borough and Township ask the state's Department of Environmental Protection to agree on a formula for regular release of gallage.

Mr. Olexa has proposed that the state allow Princeton to use 60 percent of gallage saved as Princeton's sewers are repaired and their infiltration plugged up. This gallage, to be released regularly—possibly on a quarterly basis—would be shared by the two municipalities on the basis of use.

The SOC decided to study this suggestion for possible October action.

APARTMENTS ON AGENDA
For Borough Zoners. A phalanx of bulk variances and a parking requirement stand between Timothy Sheehan and the 24 duplex apartments he would like to build on two additional floors of his building at the corner of Nassau and Markham.

He will appear before the Borough Zoning Board this Friday at 8 p.m. in Borough Hall to present his case.

He has planned his apartments with living-dining area, kitchen, two bedrooms and bath. Each apartment would have a fifth-floor balcony off the living-dining room, with bedrooms downstairs on the fourth floor, so that existing trees would provide more shade for bedrooms.

Borough zoning regulations require one and one-half parking spaces per apartment unit, or 34, and Mr. Sheehan will request a parking waiver. He also needs variances from floor-area ratio, height, front yard, side yard, lot area and usable open space requirements.

Neighborhood opposition is expected to center on the parking question; however, no formal petitions of opposition have been presented to the zoning office.

after being purchased by new owners, the Prime Rib restaurant on Route 1 was destroyed by fire early Monday morning. The restaurant was closed when the fire broke out at 1:53 a.m., and no one was inside at the time.

Firemen from West Windsor and Princeton Junction fought the blaze for several hours to bring it under control. Several firemen narrowly escaped being trapped in the building when a backdraft developed.

According to West Windsor fire chief Richard Rodefeld, the opening of a door let oxygen combine with gases in a loft above. The gases lit up and singed the men, who were helped out a window by state police. When the firemen arrived, the building was enveloped in flames in an area around the restaurant office and bar.

The cause of the fire, which badly charred the dining room, bar and kitchen and caused the roof to collapse, is undetermined. Detective Sgt. Clifford Maurer of the West Windsor Police was assigned to investigate.

The restaurant, now trading as West Restaurant hut still called the Prime Rib, was sold on June 10 by Calvin Ruedemann to Michael and his brother, Kim Zoumas, 31, of East Windsor, and his brother, Kim Zoumas, 40, of West Windsor for a reported $600,000. The Zoumas brothers are members of a corporation that owns the Golden Coach Diner on Route 130 near Hightstown.

The younger Zoumas said that the building was only insured for 60 to 65 percent of its value and that he did not know if it would be rebuilt. It was the second Route 1 restaurant to be destroyed by fire in a year. The Nassau Diner, three miles south in Lawrence Township, burned February 16 with a loss estimated at $200,000 by its owner.

NEW ORDINANCE...

For Borough Guns. In a brief regular meeting which lasted less than an hour, Borough Council last Thursday introduced an ordinance liberalizing the strict Borough firearms ordinance.

The amended ordinance will allow control of such things as animal pests by residents armed with permit as well as gun, who would like to get rid of them permanently. Public hearing October 11.

Next Tuesday at 8 p.m., Council announced, the Borough's police committee will gather for discussion and possibly action, on whether to allow the Township to install a police radio tower on Borough Hall property.

Unanimously, Council agreed to ask the state for Green Acres money to buy equipment for Quarry Park.

LIBEL IS CHARGED

In Suit by Hospital. The Medical Center has filed a suit in New Jersey Superior Court charging the New Jersey Monthly magazine with libel and seeking damages for harm done to its reputation.

The target of the suit is an article titled "The Health of Our Hospitals," written by Randy Young, which is a survey of 54 general hospitals in New Jersey. The Princeton facility was not among the top-ranked. The suit charges that several statements in the article were false and libelous and were "written and printed maliciously with a reckless disregard for the truth of the statement."

In particular, the Medical Center objects to statements that characterized its nursing staff as "suspect" and its administrators as "ineffective." The article also claimed that "The hospital has been plagued with financial problems and has closed down entire medical sections in the past."

The magazine ran a letter from a member of the medical staff which corrected "erroneous" information, but added a note by Mr. Young which repeated the charge again that Princeton's administrators were rated low and that the nursing care is "suspect." The suit alleges that despite demands for an "unqualified retraction," the New Jersey Monthly has not complied with the request.

The Medical center is asking the courts to order the magazine to publish a full retraction of each "libelous and false statement."

BOROUGH MAN STABBED

In Street Argument. Angel L. Galarza, 28, 78 Clay Street, remains in satisfactory condition at the Princeton Medical Center, three days after he was stabbed during a street argument.

Borough police have charged Lester Bethea, 22, 40 Leigh Avenue, with atrocious assault and battery and resisting arrest. Held in $25,000 bail, Bethea has been arraigned and sent to the Mercer County Jail.

Mr. Galarza was admitted to the hospital early Sunday morning in critical condition. He had been stabbed in the back and had suffered a collapsed lung. The alleged weapon, a folding pocket knife, was recovered by police in a catch basin.

Betha was arrested at 12:59 a.m. by Ptl. Victor Fasanella and Ptl. John Clark of the Borough, assisted by Sgt. Michael Kopliner and Ptl. Peter Savalli of the Township.

Chief Michael Carnevale said that the police investigation revealed that both men had been drinking and had had a disagreement. As a result of the disagreement, they charge, a fight ensued and Mr. Galarza was stabbed.

Two Borough patrol cars responded when a Clay Street resident called initially at 12:14 to report a disturbance at John and Clay street.

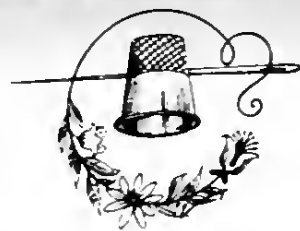

Pedestrian Assaulted. A 33-year old Princeton man was attacked by four assailants as he walked on Leigh Avenue near the Princeton Market shortly before midnight Friday.

The victim, James P. Layton, 12 Stockton Street, was treated at the Medical Center where he required 19 sutures to close a laceration of the forehead and five more for a laceration of the lip. He also sustained abrasions and contusions.

The victim told police that he had been approached by a man who asked for a cigarette. As he was about to comply, he was jumped from behind by three more men and beaten to the ground.

When his assailants demanded money, he was beaten again after he told them he had none. He managed to get up and run toward a parked station wagon in which a couple was sitting. He asked for help but they waived him off, he said, and drove away.

As he continued east on Leigh toward the Medical Center, his assailants struck him on the head with a bottle. "You won't be happy until you've murdered me," he cried, whereupon his tormentors allowed him to walk away.

Nothing was taken from the victim. Mr. Layton told police later that he had seen the man who had asked him for a cigarette earlier in the evening in Cenerino's Lounge and had spoken to him.

That suspect was described as black, 5-10 to 5-11, 140 pounds, approximately 22 years old, wearing a blue sweat shirt with white piping. The other three were described only as black.

TWO SUSPECTS CAUGHT

After Borough Robbery. A 20-year old man and 15-year old juvenile, both residents of Trenton, have been charged with armed robbery in a Witherspoon Street apartment.

The 23-year old victim, whom police declined to identify, said the two had followed him to his apartment. Once inside, they drew a pistol, which later turned out to be an air gun, tied the victim to his bed with sheet strippings, gagged and blindfolded him. They then ransacked his apartment, taking a $400 color television set, calculator, sun glasses, camera equipment and $3-$4 in cash before escaping in the victim's car.

The victim, police said, managed to free himself and called police at 9:33 p.m. from a call box at Witherspoon and Maclean. He gave police a description of his car, which had Delaware license plates, and the two suspects. It was broadcast to police departments in the surrounding area.

Less than 15 minutes later, Lawrence Township Detective Jerome Gorski observed the wanted car on the Lawrenceville Road and gave pursuit. It was stopped in Trenton, where Det. Gorski, assisted by Det. John Nasile, arrested Keith W. Hightower and the juvenile.

Hightower had a hearing in Borough court before Judge Philip Carchman and was later taken to Mercer County Jail. The juvenile was remanded to the County Youth Shelter in Trenton. Both have been charged with armed robbery and larceny by Borough police and with possession of stolen property by Lawrence police.

OFFERINGS VARIED

In Adult School Listing. The Princeton Adult School, a non-profit organization open to all area residents, has courses ranging from the instructional and practical to the creative and intellectual.

In the realm of the practical, there is a ten-week course on "The Solar Home" taught by Princeton architect Douglas Kelbaugh, who lives in his own solar house on Pine Street. The course will cover scientific, engineering, architectural and financial aspects of solar energy conversion using simplified design methods.

Also practical is the course in Mexican cooking taught by Daria Bowman on a varied and elegant cuisine which derives from French, Spanish and Indian sources. The Adult School will once again offer a multi-level selection of language courses in French, German, Italian, Russian and Spanish.

In the realm of the creative, a new course in "The Joy of Dancing" for men and women will combine study of dance technique with improvisation and experimentation. The course, taught by Esther Seligmann of the Contemporary Dance Center of Princeton, is designed as an introduction to the basic craft of dance, and there is no need for previous training.

Another offering, "Philosophy Today: Science, Ethics, and Truth," will explore such issues as the relation between science and religion, new perceptions of language, and the ethics of international politics. John Ellis, chairman of the music department at Lawrenceville School, will teach a ten week course in "Listening Perception" which will attempt to develop listening skills for greater understanding of structure, form and style in music ranging from Baroque to contemporary. "Personal Histories: A Writing Course for Women" will explore the new awareness with which women have begun to realize that growing up female is a

Hole-In-One Winner

Michael Stefanchik of Princeton won the Princeton PBA Hole-in-One contest Sunday when he placed a ball one and a half inches from the cup of the 143-yard hole. He won a color television set.

Princeton merchants donated 23 other prizes, and, as a measure of the accuracy for the day, the 23rd golfer to take the last prize was only 9½ inches from the cup.

Ptl. James Agins, in charge of the event, estimates that the police will realize a profit of $4-$500 which will be used by the PBA for its youth projects. He also expressed his gratitude to the merchants who donated prizes.

Admits Setting Explosive. Lawrence Caruso Jr. of 31 Linden Lane last week in Superior Court admitted to Judge A. Jerome Moore that he had placed an explosive device near a window of the former Institute for Defense Analyses building on the Princeton University campus.

Caruso, 18, has been charged with possession of explosives for unlawful purposes and possession of controlled dangerous substances. He will be sentenced within a few months.

The small pipe bomb was found by an employee last February 24 and later deactivated by a bomb squad from Fort Dix. Caruso, according to assistant prosecutor Janice Kemp, told Judge Moore that he realized planting the bomb was a stupid thing to do but he had done so to confuse the Princeton police. He didn't believe the device could actually explode, he said.

THE PARTY'S OVER

Police Nip Beer Drinkers. Two 16-year old youths and a 17-year old were arrested Friday night at Moore and Spruce streets by police who charged them with possession of alcoholic beverages.

Ptl. John Holcombe and Ptl. William Fitch said that the three had a case of beer, allegedly obtained from Varsity Liquors, 234 Nassau, in their possession. One of the youths was from the Borough, one from the Township and one from North Carolina, police said. They were later turned over to their parents.

About six hours later, at 3:08 Saturday morning, Sgt. Ralph Procaccino and Ptl. Victor Fasanella observed two juveniles, 13 and 14, wandering about University Place and College Road in their bare feet while under the influence of alcohol.

They were arrested and later released to their parents. One was a resident of the Township, the other from Kingston. All five juveniles will be processed by the Borough Juvenile officer.

Rev. Harold Thomas, Once Pastor Here, Loses Life in Flood at Kansas City

Memorial services will be held, at a date to be announced, for the Rev. Harold Thomas, 42, former pastor of the Witherspoon Street Presbyterian Church, who lost his life when he was swept away in the Kansas City, Missouri, flood last week.

The Rev. Mr. Thomas had been in Princeton Labor Day weekend, having been invited here to officiate at the marriage of Sharon Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Campbell, 105 Leigh Avenue, and Ralph Corlette. The house guest during that weekend of old friends, Mr. and Mrs. Lankford Bolling, 70 Harris Road, the Rev. Mr. Thomas preached at Witherspoon Presbyterian on Sunday, September 3. His theme was "Amazing Grace," and he invited the congregation to sing the old hymn along with him as part of the service.

Informed that he was missing at the height of the flood, members of the Witherspoon congregation gathered for a vigil of prayer the night of Tuesday, September 13. But word came the following day that his body had been found.

Apparently he had been driving with his wife, Joanne, when they decided the flooding was so bad that it would no longer be safe to drive. Mrs. Thomas clasped the trunk of a tree for safety, and her husband clung to a large shrub. Fearful that she was about to lose her grip, he tried to make his way to her side but was unable to fend against the strong currents and was swept away.

Julius Scott, head of the Session of Witherspoon Church, represented the congregation at the funeral services in Missouri.

A native of Bermuda, the Rev. Mr. Thomas accepted the call of the Witherspoon congregation in 1964 and served here until 1969 when he left to become minister of the Linwood United Presbyterian Church in Kansas City. Linwood, a white church, called the Rev. Mr. Thomas because they wanted a black minister who could help integrate the church. Witherspoon Presbyterian is an integrated church, and Linwood had heard of the Rev. Mr. Thomas' success in Princeton.

In addition to his wife, the Rev. Mr. Thomas is survived by three daughters, ages 5, 8 and 10.

HATFIELD TO SPEAK the Rules and Administration Committee, has served in the Senate since 1967, after two terms as governor of Oregon. On University Campus, U.S. Senator Mark O. Hatfield (R-Ore.) will speak in the Princeton University Chapel on Thursday, September 29, at 7:30, giving "A Personal Point of View."

The 55-year-old Sen. Hatfield, a member of the Senate Appropriations Committee and the ranking Republican on Vietnam, long before this was a popular stance.

The public is invited.

CASSETTE, TAPES TAKEN
In Office Entry. A cassette recorder and tapes, valued at $140, were stolen Monday from a second-floor Nassau Street office.

Police said that the intruder had climbed a fire escape and removed a window air conditioner to enter the office.

Less successful were thieves who broke a window to enter the Alchemist and Barrister restaurant, 28 Witherspoon Street, last week. They attempted to force open a safe inside but were unsuccessful, police said.

There was an attempted entry in the Township at the home of Dale and Jory Barone, 167 Linden Lane.

Mr. Barone told police he was awakened by footsteps at the side of the house at 2:15 Thursday morning and heard a window being raised. He saw no one but did observe a truck parked the wrong way at the curb.

He then heard footsteps run from the rear to the front of the house and the truck drive away. In the morning, he discovered a bathroom storm window had been forced out of its track.

Princeton Regional School HIGHLIGHTS

Back to School nights are coming up and during the evening, you will be asked to join the PTO of the school where your child is. This issue of Highlights will be devoted to telling you about the PTOs, what they are, and what their plans are for the year.

The Parent-Teacher Organization of each school forms a vital link between parents, teachers, school administrators, and the community. Not only does it serve as a two way communication branch, it tries to fill a need wherever it exists, and donates both time and money to make the schools a better place for our children.

The PTO Council is composed of the presidents of each PTO in the Princeton Regional School System, plus the school principals and the superintendent. It explores areas where the PTOs can aid the schools most extensively and constructively. It acts as both a forum for sharing information and ideas and as a coordinator of school wide projects such as concerts and drama, school-wide exhibits, calendar coordination, volunteer training, and publicity. This year's council, under the leadership of its President, Nancy Di Meglio, hopes to strengthen the bonds linking home, school and community by providing information about all phases of educational activities.

The Princeton High School PTO serves as liaison between parents, teachers, students and administrators. Through its monthly newsletter and other means, it is a source of information for the community. The PTO is an organization for parents who are actively interested in their child's continuing education at Princeton High School.

Jane Evans
President, Princeton High School PTO

Back-To-School Night on Wednesday, October 5th, officially welcomes the 1977-78 school year at John Witherspoon. We expect it to be a cheerful mingling of students, parents and teachers. October also brings to our school a post-in-residence, whose stay will be made possible by a matching grant from the N.J. State Council on the Arts. Students, this year, will have a chance to become involved in student government with Mr. William Johnson, our principal. A Cabinet of elected members has been established to improve policies on curriculum, discipline and other areas. A Faculty Cabinet has also been organized. In April there will be state assessment testing for 6th graders. Also, in the spring, an exciting new schoolwide yearbook will be published by a student-faculty staff. Our eighth grade students will wind up the year with a picnic, dance and promotion ceremony. We are looking forward to a very busy and interesting year.

Bobette Lister
President, John Witherspoon School PTO

The Community Park PTO assists with many activities at the school. One of the activities we regularly assist is the school assembly program. Our first assembly will be part of our Bicycle SAFETY Program, September 26 and 27. We hope to provide a number of other assemblies, educational and fun, to enrich the school's regular assembly program. In conjunction with the assembly program, we are coordinating displays to provide real examples of some of the ideas and things discussed and to stimulate further thought. We also have parent volunteers to assist in the school library, and in the classrooms. Our foyer is brightened by our many beautiful plants contributed by parents and staff and tended by parent volunteers. We anticipate using our greenery to teach the students about plant care, a program which will also be conducted by our parents. Our winter book swap provides an opportunity for students to exchange old books, or books they have tired of for others, thus encouraging reading.

Our regular PTO programs will include in addition to Back to School Night, a reception for Dr. Houston, a meeting concerning special services in the schools, a Valentine's Day party for parents and students and a Field Day at the end of the year. We hope also to conduct a group of small seminars sometime during the winter to discuss topics of interest to parents. Plans for other programs are underway and we anticipate the possibility of meetings concerning school budgeting, special subjects (vocal music, art, library, gym) and learning objectives for our students at each grade level.

There is much to be done, many ideas not yet considered, many activities to be started and we look forward enthusiastically to working together this year.

Ann McGoldrick
President, Community Park PTO

The Johnson Park PTO Executive Board will hold its first meeting on Tuesday, September 20th at 9:30 A.M. at the Johnson Park School. Our primary goal is to get greater parental involvement in activities in our school system. At present several "Coffee and Conversations" are planned at which we will have members from the Princeton Regional Schools Administration as well as those from Johnson Park School discuss particular aspects of our school and its future. Other scheduled meetings will include forums devoted to issues concerning curriculum development and the current issues surrounding the state mandated Thorough and Efficient (T and E) program. We are also interested in expanding the Volunteers Program and scheduling special assemblies and events for the cultural enrichment of the student body. Currently plans are also underway to install an additional, creative playground facility for the kindergarten, first, and second grade students. Anyone willing to help install the new equipment may call Mrs. Barbara-Ann Hoyer at 924-8349.

Barbara-Ann Hoyer
President, Johnson Park PTO

The PTO of Littlebrook School plans to continue its volunteer projects such as classroom aides, library aides, indoor gardening and mini-courses. It will use all money raised through its fund raising projects to benefit the children attending the school. Some of the past PTO projects are having purchased musical instruments, funded magazine subscriptions for the library, supported the Backpacking program and provided mini grants.

Rosemary McGee
President, Littlebrook PTO

The Riverside PTO embarks upon this year with the hope that we may be a positive force in the Riverside students' excitement of learning. Through involvement with such activities as Book Week, Friday activities, assemblies, assisting children in the library in reading in music and other ways, we will strive to generate the interest and spirit which students find encouraging and creative. This, of course, means an endeavor to involve parents by their sharing special talents and interests. It is hoped that meaningful communication between home and school will exist and that parents and children alike will be proud, happy and enthusiastic about the learning process taking place.

Rechel Gray
President, Riverside School PTO

THE SWEET SMELL OF MONEY: Fund-raising through cake-baking is the route this fall for Littlebrook School's PTO, which will hold a bake sale next Wednesday, September 28, during Back-to-School night. The 13.1-mile "Half-Marathon" and a three-mile "Run-For Fun," sponsored by the First National Bank of Princeton for the benefit of the YM-YWCA, will start at 1 Sunday on Hodge Road across from the Y building. Finish for both races will be Palmer Square.

There will be prizes to the top finishers in the half-marathons in different age divisions for both men and women from 14 through 50 and up. NJAAU-sanctioned, the marathon will follow paved roads through a scenic route. More than a 1,000 runners from New Jersey and surrounding states are expected to compete.

Complete information about entry fees and applications may be obtained from the director of the event, Peter Clark, at 924-7032.

JOINT MEETING SET
For Two Governing Bodies.
Moving the dinner-hour ahead to tea-time, Township Committee will meet at 7 p.m. this Wednesday for an hour-long presentation by the Ohio company that would like to lease the old sewer plant for industrial re-cycling.

Borough Council members will travel to Township Hall for the joint meeting because disposition of the sewer plant, which will go out of use November 1 when the new one goes into service, is a decision which must be made by the two municipalities and Princeton University.

Last Wednesday, with an "at long last!" sigh, Township Mayor Josie Hall banged the gavel on Committee's unanimous approval of the ordinance approving the service agreement with the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority. Committee -- and Borough Council -- have been discussing the new agreement for many months.

It provides that newcomers to the Authority and old members with sharply increased flows must pick up part of the debt service.

"This is an advantage for early hookers-into," Mayor Hall commented, "especially for the already built-up Borough."

Although William Cherry, from the audience, advised delaying action to make sure of environmental protection, Committee decided to go ahead anyway.

More on Bike Paths. At this Wednesday's regular 8 p.m. meeting hour, Committee will continue its discussion of last Wednesday regarding a possible extension of the Community Park North bikeway to Cherry Hill Road.

The bike path, at the moment, stops abruptly in the middle of nowhere. That's because there wasn't enough money to continue.

But now, reported Abbot Low Moffat exuberantly, some $23,000 has been found, left over during park construction, and the bike path could be extended to Cherry Hill for only about $11,300, of which Green Acres money would pay half.

Looking uneasily over their shoulders at the Unitarians up on the hill, Mr. Moffat and Mayor Hall agreed that they didn't want the path to debouche into the Unitarian parking lot.

If it were to do so, they warned, the Unitarians' lot might become almost a public parking space. Mr. Moffat suggested terminating the new bikeway at the intersection of Route 206 and Cherry Hill.

State Path Approved. Along another path, Committee last week unanimously approved the resolution on a state bike path along Stockton. The state has ruled that the path's end -- a segment between Edgerstoune and Rosedale -- must be seven feet in width. No worthwhile trees will be lost on Stockton, assured Mayor Hall and Committee member Elizabeth Hutter.

No more parking on Province Line, from Pretty Brook north. Committee unanimously passed the ordinance Wednesday, although somebody remarked that a snippet of Province Line in Hopewell still is parkable. The ban may inconvenience hikers and even some neighbors, Committee learned, but decided to see how it works out before amending.

There's another sewer system -- the one the Township shares with Montgomery and Rocky Hill. Developer Benedict Yedlin, who wants 20,000 of the Township's 100,000 allotment for houses and institutional use on Mt. Lucas, asked the Township to define its "first come - first served" policy. "First" doing what? Mr. Yedlin wanted to know. Committee promised to come up with a policy October 5.

The possibility that Princeton's school system may need temporary classrooms if the high school is remodeled during the school year, has made some school board members unhappy about Township tenancy of the Valley Road building. Committee has learned.

However, Committee agreed with a contract allowing a four-year lease, with two-years' notice by the school board if the Township has to get out. Committee members, however, urged that language in the agreement be made more specific in several instances.

THEFT REPORT

4 Hubcaps: $400. As it does every week, the larceny beat in Princeton goes on.

Taken Monday from a car parked in the Princeton University lot next to TOWN TOPICS were four wire wheel covers valued at $400. The victim is a Trenton resident.

A 35mm camera worth $275 and a three-piece suit valued at $150 were reported stolen Monday from a basement storage room in Holder Hall on the campus, while a Princeton resident lost a $40 battery from his car parked overnight in the Palmer Square lot next to the Princeton Playhouse.

Two Kendall Park residents were the victim of car thefts. One reported a radial tire taken from his car parked at the Princeton Medical Center lot -- the trunk had been forced open -- while the other lost an 8-track FM-AM unit from under the dashboard of his car while it was parked in a university lot. It was valued at $130.

A Moped was taken from an unlocked garage on Wilton Street last week, but the $520 vehicle was recovered the following day in the Township.

In the Township, Patricia Rist of Millstone Drive, Cranbury, reported the theft of a $65 AM-FM radio and tape player from her locked car which was parked during the day in the university lot next to Jndwyn Gym. Police believe a wire was used to open the car door.

A 1977 Avis rental car was reported stolen Friday by Stanley Skriloff, 444 Rosedale Road. His wife, police said, had parked the car in the drive at 7 p.m. with the door unlocked and the keys in the ignition. It was discovered stolen two hours later.

Fire Extinguishers Taken. Five small fire extinguishers were removed from five Princeton Regional school buses parked in a fenced-in area next to the Valley Road School building.

Pt. Peter Savalli and Pt. John Hammond while on patrol at 3:50 Friday morning found four of the extinguishers lying against the rear of the school building. Later, in checking the school buses, they discovered the theft.

The one extinguisher has not been recovered, police said. Each is valued at $20.

DAMAGE IS LIGHT

From Two Small Fires. Township police responded to two small fires early last week within a half-hour of each other.

At 3 p.m., the engine compartment of a small foreign car caught fire on Route 206 near Cherry Valley Road. The driver, Elaine Poinsett told police she heard a loud, banging noise and then there were flames in the engine. It was out when police arrived. The car, which had to be towed, was leased to John McCulloch of Travel Planning Associates on 206.

Twenty-eight minutes later, Pt. David Wilbur responded to a fire at Punchinello Children's Shop in the Princeton Shopping Center.

Smoke was coming from a fluorescent light fixture in the ceiling but it went out by itself, police said, when the electricity was shut off. Damage was limited to a bad odor in the building and a spot of melted ballast that dropped to the floor.

THEY'D LIKE TO KNOW

Tom Haber and Bill Cherry want to be your new Township Committeemen. A brief look at their experience will show you why they deserve your vote. They're both no-nonsense guys who know how to get things done.

First, however, they need to know the things that you want to get done. You'll be receiving a questionnaire from Tom and Bill soon. Please let them know how you feel about issues facing our Township.

Tom Haber believes in citizen contribution to local government. He is keenly interested in the goals the Township will set for its future and the ways it will achieve them.

Tom and Margie Haber reside in Princeton because they feel it is the kind of community in which they want to raise their children - a son, John, in first grade at Littlebrook and a daughter, Meg, in nursery school. The Habers have been enthusiastic participants in many programs to support and improve their community and region - Tom as a Hospital Fete worker, a United Way Industrial Division chairman, a savings bond and United Way leader at Johnson and Johnson, a project officer for the Thomas Edison Council of the Boy Scouts, and as a committee chairman and campaign worker for Princeton Republicans. Margie has co-chaired two Hospital Fete committees, and is active on the Child Advocacy Committee and the Littlebrook PTQ. She has also worked for Young Audiences and the United Fund, and was formerly a supervisor and teacher for the National Association for the Help of Retarded Children. The Haber family also enjoys participating in many Community Park and Recreation Board programs.

After graduating as a National Merit Scholar from the Wharton School of Finance and Commerce of the University of Pennsylvania in 1962 with a B.S. in Economics, Tom worked for ten years for the Hadley Corporation in North Carolina and New York where he advanced to Vice-President for Marketing and Administration. He then joined J. and J. where he is now Division Controller and a Management Board member of the Health Care Division.

Tom Haber wants to apply his management and planning skills and experience, his desire to maintain and improve the quality of life in Princeton, and his enthusiasm for the community to be a strong and effective member of the Township Committee.

Bill Cherry

A scientist with strong humanitarian leanings, Bill Cherry has been actively interested in Princeton and Princetonians since moving here 35 years ago. Born in Brooklyn and raised in Queens, N.Y., he received his B.S. in physics, with highest honors, from Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and a Ph.D. from Princeton. He has taken part in many projects at RCA Laboratories as a research physicist and systems analyst, and holds some basic patents in modern color television. Bill has been active in scouting and the YMCA and is a lecturer at All Saints' Church. He was chairman of the Citizens' Advisory Committee for the Autumn Hill Reservation. He was also chairman of one of the first neighborhood architectural and zoning review boards in the Township, and is currently on the Citizens' Advisory Committee on Housing. He holds a public school teaching certificate and did his practice teaching at Princeton High School.

The Cherrys have two daughters - one a lawyer and one a state planning expert, and a son, Martin, who attends Westminster Choir College and is a member of Princeton First Aid and Rescue Squad. Pat Cherry, a computer programmer with a lifelong dedication to Girl Scouting, is vice-president of the Delaware-Raritan Girl Scout Council. She took a prominent role in the recent International Women's Year state conference.

Bill Cherry has not stood on the sidelines. He has been a sincere critic of the conduct of Township business. His criticism has been nonpartisan, even though he has served many terms as a member of the Mercer County Republican Committee and is chairman of one of its standing committees. He believes Township government should be an active and responsive agent of Township citizens, constructive within the Township and protective of it.

ATTEND WORKSHOP

On Energy legislation. Members of Common Cause from the Princeton area attended a workshop focused on energy legislation Sunday at Eagleton Institute, Rutgers University, in New Brunswick. The workshop was sponsored by New Jersey Common Cause.

Present were James Thornton, Josephine Werth, John Werth, Lee Merrill, Jim Banner, John Wallmark, Marilyn Steeg, Ted Chase, Hank Gurin, Terry Gurin and Sue Fremon.

Common Cause is a national organization of over 250,000 members, of whom 11,000 live in New Jersey, founded seven years ago by John Gardner. The goals of the organization, which calls itself the "citizens' lobby," is to change the procedures of government to make it more open and accountable and to take big money and secrecy from politics.

phasized that the whole project hinges on whether the Borough will build a parking garage—probably on Spring Street—to accommodate the cars that will be displaced.

Trade-off Possible. Tenants will be assigned specific parking spaces, Mr. Geddes said, adding his hope that a trade-off can be worked out so that elderly drivers can park on the site and not have to walk to the parking garage.

Cars will enter from Chambers Street, he continued. Garbage trucks also enter from Chambers and will collect garbage from underneath the building.

By the end of the 90-minute meeting, it seemed that the Rev. Mr. Smith's objections, and those of others, to brick walls, had softened considerably. At least they had been forcefully recorded by PCH and the architects.

"I'm surprised the building didn't look more out of place than it might have," was the quiet observation of Susan Johnson. She is a member of the Witherspoon-Jackson Development Corporation, also concerned with housing in the same area.

WARM UP WITH DOWN

At Mine Mtn. Sports. Let it snow, let it blow, Mine Mtn. Sports, (formerly Varsity Sports Shop) is jam-crammed with down jackets, vests and winter wear for skiing and everyday activity.

"We've discovered some really neat Western American companies", says Steve Spiegel, owner, "who are making down-filled vests and jackets in western styles". To give you an idea of how they look, there's a green vest with a blue yolk, red lining, a green vest with a yellow yolk and orange lining, etc. $55.

Jackets in western styles follow the same color themes. Priced from $79.95 - $105. "Super Sweater" is a lightweight version of the heavier down jackets, in solid colors of green or medium blue, $64.95.

Jackets, vests and Super Sweaters by Uphill Down Products, Gerry and Miller Western Wear. Unisex sizes extra-small to extra-large.

Children's Choice: Two-toned Western jackets with contrasting linings have a single layer hood that can slip into a pocket, and down jackets with an attached hood in solid navy are both by Pacific Trail Super Sweaters by Gerry are solid red, green, light blue, navy with same color linings. All $50. All sizes 8 to 20.

Warmth for Women: A long, quilted nylon coat with attached hood is warm comfort on a cold day. Made by Head, it is insulated with nylon bonded to mylar, which reflects body heat back to you. Washable. In light blue or navy. Sizes 8-16.

A hip length nylon down jacket with attached hood is also made by Head in a town and country look. The fox fur trim on the hood zips off so the jacket can be washed. Navy, light brown, bone. Sizes 8-16, $150.

Top of the line in non down ski wear is Bogner's sophisticated jump suit that zips apart into separate jacket and pants. Nylon, insulated with stretch polyester, in a dazzling white with an evergreen scene on jacket back. $295. Sizes 8-16. Skyr features bib pants and a polyester insulated jacket in light blue with red trim, $130.

Men's and women's bib pants in black, light blue, yellow, white, red can be matched to any jacket in the store. $43 to $80 depending on label.

NEW FOR SKIERS: Thom Mitton, a Certified-Canadian ski instructor, who manages the Ski Shop for Mine Mtn. Sports, displays a sample from "The Ski," a high performance line new to the east coast.

Skills and Services: Mine Mtn. Sports has skis in the finest brands available. You'll find Lange, Dynastar, Hexcel, Rossignol, Olin and "The Ski," a high performance line, new to the east coast. A combination of lightweight skis, bindings and poles can be purchased for as little as $100, or you can spend $255 for very sophisticated, high performance skis, only.

Ski boots by Hanson, Nordica, Scott, Lange, Trezeta are priced from $37 for a junior size boot worn by children or small women to $220 for Hanson's new "Citation" boots.

One of the most valuable and important services is offered in the store's Skii Shop, managed by Thom Mitton, a Canadian-Certified skii instructor. This experienced and well-trained young man can help you select exactly the right combination of skis, boots, bindings and poles for your needs, ability and budget. In addition, the store can offer you a package price at substantial savings on items bought in combination rather than separately.

For your convenience, the store mounts bindings, sharpens, waxes and repairs skis and services bindings. But the service you'll probably enjoy most are the projected bus trips to local ski areas. These are planned for December, or earlier, if we have earlier snow.

There are two other Mine Mtn. stores in New Jersey, one in Madison, one in Bernardsville. Located at 138 Nassau Street, in Princeton, store hours are 9:30 - 6, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Saturday, Thursday and Friday, 9:30 - 9.

PS WHERE PEOPLE

MAKE THE DIFFERENCE

For 60 years, we've been
years ahead.

Today we're $100 million strong.

In 1917, ten citizens laid the groundwork and breathed life into a savings institution that has grown and prospered for 60 years. It didn't just happen. Princeton Savings has come through two wars and a depression with flying colors. In six decades of service to the community we've helped over 4,725 families own their own homes and served over 36,000 savers. Through all those years, we built our reputation on three important principles:

Sound management of the money entrusted to us.

The innovation of new services to make banking as convenient and efficient as possible.

And Integrity towards our customers.

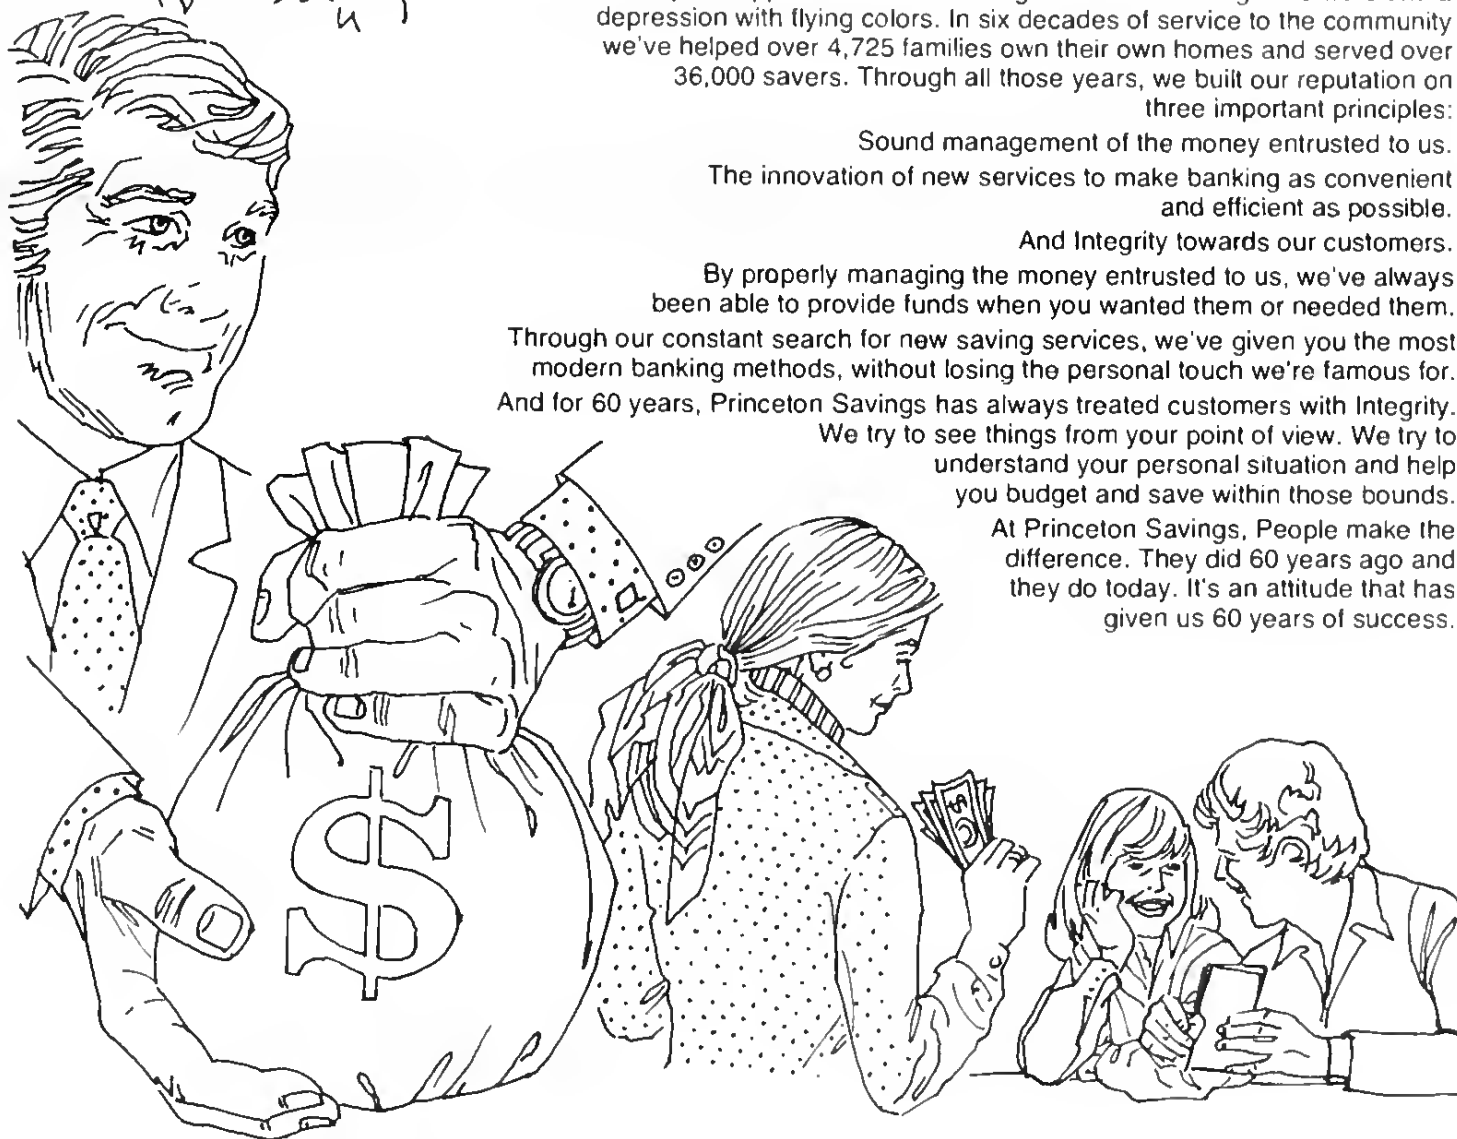

By properly managing the money entrusted to us, we've always been able to provide funds when you wanted them or needed them.

Through our constant search for new saving services, we've given you the most modern banking methods, without losing the personal touch we're famous for.

And for 60 years, Princeton Savings has always treated customers with Integrity.

We try to see things from your point of view. We try to understand your personal situation and help you budget and save within those bounds.

At Princeton Savings, People make the difference. They did 60 years ago and they do today. It's an attitude that has given us 60 years of success.

NEEDLECRAFT SPECIALISTS: Lynne Schreiber and Maxine Haftiz, co-owners of the newly-opened "The Yarn Tree" in Mercer Mall, are offering lessons in knitting, crewel, needlepoint, crochet.

It's New to Us

"One of the newest forms of embroidery is 'Japanese Bunka'". A punch hook is used with a high sheen Japanese yarn to make pictures and doll house rugs that reflect the light.

The yarn can also be combed to give it a brushed effect. Small picture kits with frame included are $4.95. Doll house rug kits are $5.50 - $15.95.

Pulled Thread techniques create a lacy look. Using needlepoint canvas, the stitches can be pulled into many patterns, textures and designs.

Black Work begins with an even-weave fabric in linen or cotton and only dark thread is used for the designs. Certain stitches, which belong only to Black Work, create unusual textures. Elsa Williams makes kits for both pulled thread $3.95 - $17.95 and Black Work $4.95 - $10.95.

Crewel Small pictures called "Jiffy Stitchery" are three-dimensional. A basket of ferns spills right out of the picture.

Kits by Sunset Stitchery $2.50 - $4.50

Cross Stitch, traditional and charming, abounds in kits from 8 companies, $3 - $10.

Needlepoint: The Yarn Tree carries the finest Paternayan Persian yarns for needlepoint. The families of colors are exquisite. 1 oz. skein $1.60. Other needlepoint yarns are DMC wool tapestry, pearl cotton, embroidery floss, limited to 8 persons. Inquire at Bernat's Persian type acrylic.

Painted or patterned The Yarn Tree, Mercer Mall needlepoint canvases, $8.95 to $50, depending on the number of colors used and the uniqueness of the design. Plain needlepoint cotton canvases can be purchased in mesh sizes 5-30 at $6.50 to $9.95. Linen canvas and linen even-weave fabric, $12 to $22. Rug canvas in polyester or cotton from $5.50-yard. Needlepoint scroll frames are available in every size and type $6.50 - $22.

Pre-Mounted Needlepoint: Purse and tote, pillows, tennis racquet covers, change purses, scissors cases, check-book covers, eyeglass cases, all have needlepoint panels to be worked, $6.95 - $40.

Knitting Yarns. The Yarn Tree has all the standard brands, weights, colors, synthetic or wools, from lightest baby yarn to heaviest bulkys. Prices vary with weight of yarn, size of skein and manufacturer. Very "in" are the Shetland yarns in many colors by Spinnerin and Unger. Some of the most unusual yarns are "Curlama", which looks like Persian Lamb, from Stanley Berocco. $2.50-skein. Bernat's "Dorlaine" with a metallic thread is made in France. $1.99-skein. Also by Bernat, "Carnaca", a nubby-textured sport yarn, $1.20 tube.

Among the bulky yarns carried by the shop is the well-known "Lopi" by Reynolds in earth colors and other shades. Bernat's big bulky and Danish bulky in a variety of colors, and "Candide," a heavy weight worsted wool from Canada

Lessons are being planned for morning, afternoon and evenings in knitting, crocheting, crewel and needlepoint. Enrollment limited to 8 persons. Inquire at the shop.

The Yarn Tree, Mercer Mall needlepoint canvases, $8.95 to $50, depending on the number of colors used and the uniqueness of the design. Plain needlepoint cotton

"Dinky" Economy Evaluated.
To the Editor of Town Topics:
Recent articles on plans for the Dinky have focused almost exclusively on raising the required subsidies, to the neglect of the question of lower-cost alternatives for Princeton commuters. Many large cities have decided to forego new rail systems in favor of far cheaper express buses.

Since rail operation is usually thought economical only in high-density corridors, it would seem advisable for Princeton to look closely at a shuttle bus service to replace the Dinky.

According to last week's TOWN TOPICS, an expanded Dinky service is expected to require some $267,500 in operating costs next year. Using some crude hack-of-the-envelope calculations based on costs typical of metropolitan bus agencies, it is hard to see how a shuttle bus service meeting every train at the junction could cost much more than $100,000 per year.

Furthermore, the extra flexibility of a bus offers many possibilities for improved service. The calculation above already assumed a pickup route along Nassau Street and Washington Road, thus saving a walk or drive for some commuters. But there is no reason why a shuttle could not be combined with the present loop bus, to offer no-transfer service for many residents from their homes to Princeton Junction.

I am sure the money saved by the two Princetons, Mercer County, and the state could be put to good use. The valuable land now occupied by the present Dinky right-of-way would be freed for other use. To the extent that people take advantage of the additional pickup points on the bus routes, parking problems would be alleviated at both stations.

The Dinky station could still be converted into a lovely restaurant. The proposed new Route 1 parking lot could still be built if desired, though preferably relocated along Washington Road.

Perhaps Princetonians really care enough about the Dinky's aesthetic and historical value to warrant its preservation. If so, I'm all for it. But at least they are entitled to a careful study of the alternatives for a purely transportation system, so they can know just how much they are paying to keep their railroad's amenities.

Topics of the Town

PLANS DISCUSSED

For Station as Restaurant
There certainly aren't any plans to call it the Dinky Diner, but it has been suggested—in an endorsement of the plan by Township Committee candidate Kate Litvack—that the Dinky station, across from McCarter Theatre, would be a nice place for a pre-theatre or after-theatre bite to eat.

The eagerness of Victoria Station, Inc., to move in and construct a Victorian-style restaurant out of the old Dinky station is the most colorful aspect of recently announced plans to try to save the Dinky through a financial package developed by the Save the Dinky committee and the state.

Victoria Station, Inc., would use not only the present station, which is not very large, but old railroad cars as well, accumulating 8,000 square feet of restaurant space. The property is in an Education zone. Land-ownership around the station is a patchwork, with Princeton University, the state (after acquisition from Conrail) and possibly even the Township involved.

As announced last week and discussed at a county meeting last Wednesday, plans call for Victoria Station to contribute $40,000 a year, or two and one-half percent of its gross—whichever is larger—to the Dinky kitty.

Merging the two commercial parking lots and the West Windsor Parking Authority lots would bring an estimated $56,518 from the other end of the line, while a 30-cent fare would produce $77,556.

If the state picks up $80,000 of the deficit and Mercer County another $8,000 to $10,000, the two Princetons and West Windsor would have about $750 a year each to pay, to Save the Dinky.

"Who will be the umbrella-group to oversee all this?" asked Township Committee member Margaret Broadwater at last Wednesday's Committee meeting. "An authority? A private group? All the towns?"

Commenting to his colleagues on Township Committee, David Balir said, "When you think of all the Amtrack cutbacks, the Dinky may become the last operating rail segment in the northeast!"

THE ARCHITECT AND THE SITE: Robert F. Geddes, left, surveys the Junction platform which he has been commissioned to incorporate into a complex of shops, offices and motel convention facilities. With him are Thomas Alikas, center, and William L. Bamberger of the developing company.

GEDDES IS DESIGNER
Of Junction Complex.
Robert Geddes of Geddes Brecher Qualls Cunningham, has been named design architect for "The Junction," a new mini-town center to be built in West Windsor.

William Bamberger, president of W.L. Bamberger Associates, Inc., made the announcement for the development company. "The knowledge and experience of Robert Geddes and his firm will be valuable assets in achieving the kind of development that will benefit

BUSINESS

In and Around Princeton

West Windsor and the surrounding community," he said.

Mr. Geddes calls this "a great opportunity to serve the needs of the local community." Geddes Brecher Qualls Cunningham current design work in community development includes the Princeton Community Housing, mid-rise apartments to be located next to the Playhouse in downtown Princeton; the Architects Housing Company elderly housing in Trenton; Philadelphia's new downtown convention center, the Franklin Plaza Hotel; and the recently completed Corning, New York Market Street renewal.

Mr. Geddes and his firm will design the complex in conjunction with Land Design Associates, land planners and landscape architects of Huntington, N.Y., who presently are functioning as project coordinators, and Henry Zuckerman, architect, of Shoreham, N.Y. The proposed center, which will be located on 30 acres surrounding both sides of the Princeton Junction Railroad Station, will involve rebuilding the station itself and construction of a new hotel-conference center, offices, retail shops, restaurants, recreation facilities, and a railroad museum.

"The Junction" is expected to provide a new focal point socially and economically for the West Windsor community. The center will also provide much-needed parking for an estimated 4,000 cars.

LAW OFFICES PLANNED

For Leigh Avenue. Plans to convert the old Bovino Market building on the corner of Leigh Avenue and John Street to law offices will be presented next Wednesday, September 28, at 7:30 to the Township Zoning Board in Township Hall.

Joseph L. Stonaker, Princeton attorney who now has offices at 245 Nassau, would like to buy from Joseph V. and Maria Bovino the boarded-up market building at 39 Leigh, its next-door house at 37 Leigh and the property behind the market at 72 Birch.

Mr. Stonaker and his associate, Ouida Young, emphasize that they would keep 37 Leigh as a private home to be rented - as it is now - and would retain the small park-like parcel of land behind the market on the corner of Birch and John, with its grass and trees. An abandoned house on the 72 Birch property would be razed.

Mr. Stonaker needs a variance for the change in use from commercial to office. Under Township zoning regulations, requiring one parking space for each 200 square feet of gross floor area, he needs seven spaces. The property already has three, on a concrete apron adjoining the market building.

Citing what he regards as adequate street parking, Mr. Stonaker will ask the Zoning Board for a parking variance since, if he must provide four more places on the property, he would have to pave over some of the grass area.

In addition, the Zoning Board will consider another change to office use this one requested by Econ., Inc. for the property at 511 Kingston Road.

News Of The CHURCHES

NAMED CHAPLAIN

To International Students. The Nassau Presbyterian Church has appointed Charles Amjad - Ali, a native of Karachi, Pakistan, and a senior at Princeton Seminary, to minister to the needs of the many international students at the Seminary.

The majority of international students at the Seminary are not candidates for the M.Div. degree but ordained, experienced ministers who are working on advanced degrees. Often representative of the best educated people of their home countries, they have sometimes felt slighted here, and lonely here, according to a questionnaire prepared last year by the campus ministry committee of Nassau Church.

Mr. Amjad-Ali, who is president of the International Students Association at the Seminary, received his B.A. in political science, international relations and economics from the University of Karachi. He then went to Oxford, England, to study comparative religion and oriental philosophy, to Bonn, Germany, for more philosophy, and to London for theology before coming to Princeton.

He is married to a University of Sheffield, England, graduate in pure mathematics who is now a second - year student at the Seminary. Together they hope to combine a teaching ministry with social work in Pakistan eventually.

Nassau Church regards Mr. Amjad-Ali as a chaplain and active advocate on behalf of the international students and hopes that in turn the international viewpoints represented will be enriching 3 to members of the Church congregation.

TIPS ON TAX CREDITS

In IRS Booklet. The Internal Revenue Service has a new booklet available for employers who may qualify for the Jobs Tax Credit because they hired additional workers during 1977, or plan to hire workers through 1978. Publication 902, "Tax Information on Jobs Tax Credits" is available free of charge from IRS.

The publication provides details on the credit, established by the Tax Reduction and Simplification Act of 1977, for employers who hire new employees in their businesses. Generally, the job credit is based on the aggregate unemployment insurance wages under the Federal Unemployment Tax Act (FUTA). Employers not covered under the FUTA system, with the exception of certain railroad and farm employers, are not eligible for the credit.

Qualifications, calculations, special rules and instructions for claiming the credit are explained in the booklet which includes examples illustrating most aspects of the job credit.

The publication should be especially helpful to the small business owner who may be eligible for the tax credit, IRS reports. Taxpayers can obtain Publication 902 from their nearest IRS office.

Meet Borough Engineer George Olexa, a Man Who Knows How to Steer a Straight and Narrow Path

Slim as a slide-rule and required to be equally impersonal, George Olexa finds these days that his professional life is an equation — Borough on one side, Township on the other.

And George Olexa precisely in the middle.

Not only that, he has keen interests outside his job which could unbalance that equation if he allowed them to do so, which he never does.

What makes the equation a delicate balance is that Mr. Olexa is the Borough engineer, paid by the Borough for his services. But he is also sanitary engineer and secretary of the Sewer Operating Committee, a joint Borough - Township - University operation whose three members each put $2,400 into the kitty to pay Mr. Olexa an additional $7,200.

The SOC was faced Monday night with making a final decision on how to allocate the 64,000 gallons per day of sewage dumped in the lap of the two Princetons — an unfortunate metaphor but an accurate one — by the state, in a partial lifting of the sewer moratorium. (See "Topics of the Town")

Difficult Decision. It was expected that the SOC's final decision would be a compromise worked out by Mr. Olexa. Not an easy matter: the Borough wanted the gallons allocated one way, the Township another. Technically the employee of both, like municipal attorney Gordon Griffin, is Mr. Olexa not "more" the Borough's engineer than the SOC's and required to be more loyal to the Borough? How can he make a fair decision?

"I don't feel I have a problem in short - changing the Township and favoring the Borough," Mr. Olexa said this week. "Working for two different entities doesn't present the professional problem of being fair, but of having everyone BELIEVE you are fair."

"Even as Borough engineer," he continues, "I have personal views for or against something, but when I'm functioning, it's strictly for the benefit of Borough taxpayers."

Regarding who gets how many of those gallons, Mr. Olexa says, "As an arbitrator, I can say flatly that I am not favoring the Borough, but 15 minutes later, I can go to MIDDLEMAN: Engineer George Olexa answers to several constituents in the course of a working day. It's often a working night, too, with municipal meetings extending well into the day after. Mr. Olexa is both Borough engineer and sanitary engineer for the Sewer Operating Committee.

Nelson (van den Blink, Borough representative on the SOC) and explain to her exactly what would be best for the Borough. Later, I can go to Township Committee and tell them what's best for the Township."

"These two things may be at opposite ends. Actually, it's a political problem THEY must resolve. I can only give technical advice."

Deadline a Factor. "So far as my influence is concerned," he explains, "I simply encouraged both Borough and Township to yield, mutually, because the SOC had to act by September 19."

Mr. Olexa contends, and he says Mr. Griffin agrees, that the SOC has the authority to make a decision which may not be acceptable to the two governing bodies.

If one of the two could line up the University, that 2-1 decision would stand. However, Mr. Olexa says, the SOC has wanted the two governing bodies to agree.

Three months ago, Borough and University asked the state to lift the ban on sewer connections. The Township asked the state to keep the lid on.

"I faithfully answered all the Township's questions," Mr. Olexa explains. "They had legitimate reasons for wanting to keep the ban. They were faced with by-passing — after all, it occurs on Township land. Some Township Committee members may be more ... well, shall we say, environmentally oriented than some of the Borough people, and they wanted to know about the effect of our inflow and infiltration correction program, and some things about the new treatment plant."

"Based on my advice, they decided not to ask for lifting the ban. There were political reasons for this, too, and they clearly have political reasons for insisting on sharing in the gallonage, even though they didn't want the ban lifted — after all, people in the Township are beating on their door, wanting to connect!"

"I had to stay right in the middle, because it was clear which way each municipality would go."

A Conservationist. After hours, the balance must still be maintained.

"I'm a conservationist — not an environmentalist — and vice - chairman of the Central New Jersey Section of the Sierra Club. Nothing I do there conflicts, and I figure it's on MY time."

Natives of rural Pennsylvania like himself, Mr. Olexa believes, are "conservative" "because we had fewer physical goods!"

"I'm interested in preserving our natural resources, re-cycling, interested in plants, trees, flowers. But I'm not politically active; that's for the environmentalists."

At Sierra Club outings, where Mr. Olexa is apt to cook for 120 hungry conservationists, he smilingly refuses to discuss state bond issues, or Federal programs the Sierra Club members might be interested in, or the Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority.

"The Borough might be applying, under some federal or state program," he points out.

A Matter of Taste. Usually, the 32 - year - old bachelor cooks for one, rather than 120, but whatever the number, the cooking is never by the book.

"I lean toward French cooking, and I never use a cookbook and I don't like frozen food," he says emphatically.

Cooking is done in the kitchen of the three - bedroom,

WE REHEARSE.... "The Confirmation," McCarter's first play of the new season, is now in rehearsal under director Kenneth Frankel. Here are Herschel Bernardi (left) with Alan Manson and Zohra Lampert. "The Confirmation" will open Thursday, October 6, playing through October 23.

News Of The THEATRES

OPENING....
"The Confirmation." We're in suburban Baltimore in the early 1960s. Arnold Polen — played by Herschel Bernardi — has worked hard to achieve the house in the shabby, middle-class suburb. Dismayed by the spiritual price he has to pay to maintain his wife Sherrie (Zohra Lampert) and daughter, Rachel (Tara King), in this plot of suburban ground, he begins to yearn for the ghetto he left behind.

An old black woman (Minnie Gentry), who knew his parents, feeds his nostalgic yearnings. Brother Sidney (Robert Riesel) and father-in-law Ed Abrams (Alan Manson), add to the pressure as "The Confirmation" moves toward its turning point.

It's McCarter Theatre's opening play of the season, the premiere of a new play by a 27-year-old dramatist named Howard Ashman. The title refers to the Reform Jewish ceremony, adopted in recent years in the United States as a supplement to the more traditional Bar Mitzvah and Bat Mitzvah ceremonies. Opening night will be Thursday, October 6, at 7:30 p.m. Previews have been scheduled for October 4 and 5 at the same hour. The play will continue through October 23.

Groucho Marx and Mark Twain." McCarter simply says, "See this show."

It's Randy Newman, who will be on stage at Alexander Hall under McCarter's sponsorship, Friday, October 7 at 8 p.m.

Newman uses popular songs to tell stories, describe situations within dramatic settings provided by the piano, and to create characters. He writes music which critics have called "sophisticated, adult music with irony, tragedy, humor and a taste for the bizarre."

His songs have been recorded by such artists as Joni Mitchell, Judy Collins, Three Dog Night and Harry Nilsson.

DOGS, CUCKOOS

Double Film Bill. "Dog Day Afternoon" and "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" will be the opening double bill in McCarter's film season, playing this Friday, Saturday and Sunday at 7 each night.

"Dog Day Afternoon," with Al Pacino starring in Sidney Lumet's film, will open each screening. In "Dog Day," Pacino has an unhappy wife, debts and a male lover desperate for a sex-change operation. He tries to solve his problems by teaming with a friend to rob a bank. Humor, pathos and fear combine with the freak-show aspects of the film.

"One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," to be shown at 9:30 p.m., uses an insane asylum as a metaphor of the individual against the system. It is also a study of the relationships of men confined to a small, enclosed space. Nurse Ratched (Louise Fletcher) and R.P. McMurphy (Jack Nicholson) battle it out.

CASTING....

Two, at Creative Theatre. Ruth Wallman has been named executive director of

She founded and directed the New Repertory Company, assisted the producer of NET Playhouse, and has taught acting at Barnard, the University of Rochester (she was artist-in-residence there) and at Jersey City State

HERSCHEL BERNARDI

1 The Confirmation

by HOWARD ASHMAN

also starring ZOHRA LAMPERT

directed by KENNETH FRANKEL

The McCarter Theatre is proud to introduce a new and striking voice in the American Theatre. A splendid cast captures the humor and passion of this portrait of a man whose desperate struggle for integrity puts him in conflict with his own family in its drive for the good life.

A New Musical!

EILEEN HECKART

2 The Utter Glory of Morrissey Hall

book, music and lyrics by CLARK GESNER directed by NAGLE JACKSON

Zany, totally different, and very funny, by the author of You're A Good Man Charlie Brown. Miss HECKART returns to McCarter as the headmistress of a prim, English girls' academy which is turned into a madcap roughhouse by the bizarre imaginations of its 15 uninhibited boarders.

Grand Magic

by EDUARDO DE FILIPPO

directed by MICHAEL KAHN

Pure theatre magic from Italy's foremost playwright called by Thornton Wilder "an incomparable dramatist." A phony illusionist's scheme to abduct a voluptuous young wife mushrooms wildly into a full-blown hallucination! Presented on the English stage for the first time, this McCarter discovery is a savory brew of chaos, calamity—and comedy!

4 The Torch-Bearers

by GEORGE KELLY

directed by MICHAEL KAHN

In the tradition of The Royal Family, this all-star revival of George Kelly's dazzling "backstage" farce deals not with the greats of Broadway but with an inept troupe of amateur thespians as anything which could conceivably—or inconceivably—go wrong, does! With MICHAEL KAHN directing a brilliant cast, the result promises to be an hilarious and major theatrical event.

5 Toys in the Attic

by LILLIAN HELLMAN

directed by PAT HINGLE

One of America's greatest playwrights, the author of the best-selling Pentimento and Scoundrel Time, reveals her tough, provocative insight into the human condition—making a dynamic point: the innocent sometimes bring injury to those they love, and when they do, it can be irreparable. The distinguished actor PAT HINGLE makes his debut as director of this modern classic.

Much Ado About Nothing

by WILLIAM SHAKESPEARE

Shakespeare returns to McCarter with one of his most popular plays as love's irresistible force meets two self-proclaimed immovable objects—Beatrice and Benedick. Their fierce and brilliant courtship, the tense romantic intrigue of Hero's slandered innocence, and the wonderful bumbling of Dogberry and his colleagues, combine here in one of the stage's most witty and radiant comedies.

FROM PEKING
Stylized Opera Form. The Yeh-Yu Chinese Opera Association of New York will perform excerpts from three Peking-style operas on Saturday, October 8, at 8 p.m. in Kendall Hall on the Trenton State College campus under the joint sponsorship of the Chinese Language School at Princeton, and Trenton State. Tickets at $3.50 and $5.50 may be obtained by sending a check to the Princeton Chinese Opera Company, International Center, 5 Ivy Lane, Princeton.

Each program selection will illustrate a particular form of Peking-style opera; for example, in "The Jade Bracelet," the audience will be able to see how Peking opera relies on elegant movement and gesture, rather than on dialogue, to convey emotion and illustrate action. "The Price of Hesitancy" shows how different vocal styles portray characters of different ages and characteristics. "The Tragic End of a Warlord" demonstrates the use of acrobatics and the martial arts.

In all three selections, elaborate costumes and stylized make-up are used, and singers are accompanied by an orchestra of traditional Chinese string and percussion instruments. Slides with English subtitles will make the action understandable for an American audience.

FROM AN ANCIENT TRADITION: This scene, from "The Tragic End of a Warlord," serves to demonstrate one aspect of Peking-style opera. With two other scenes, it will be presented Saturday, October 8, at Trenton State under the joint sponsorship of the college and the Chinese Language School at Princeton.

Workshop Scheduled. Before the performance, from 2:30 to 4:30, Dr. William Wegner, department of speech

Music in Princeton

A graduate of Indiana University and the New England Conservatory of Music, Mr. Arnold has a repertoire which includes a wide variety of operatic roles and sacred works. He has appeared as soloist with the Boston Symphony Orchestra in Boston, Carnegie Hall and at Tanglewood. He also sang at the Festival of Two Worlds in Spoleto, Italy last year and this year in the U.S.

Mr. Arnold made his debut with the Atlanta Symphony Orchestra last March with Robert Shaw and the "Atlanta Journal's" review said he was, "simply superb...one of the most exciting young vocalists Shaw has brought here in recent years." This fall he will be a principal, along with Metropolitan Opera star Frederica von Stade, in the Boston Symphony's fall opera which will be performed (and televised) in Boston and New York. For his Princeton debut, Mr. Arnold will perform Handel's "Cantata" and Brahms' "Four Serious Songs."

ART In Princeton

THE FALL SCENE

At Grovers Mill Graphics. For many years, visual art with literary content was considered a lesser art form. Adjectives such as "illustrative" and "literary" placed a work in the same aesthetic limbo as "commercial" and "superficial." During the past decade, however, language has steadily made its way to the artistic forefront where it has again become part of the acceptable contemporary idiom.

Happily for the viewer, standards are more flexible than they once were and allow for many different applications of the word. This includes the use of the word itself as the art, or as a part of the physical product, as well as the use of language as a legitimate adjunct or source. It is also possible to view works that are defined as poetry, such as the current display, "The Object as Poet," at the Museum of Contemporary Crafts. In this collection, the words are often contained within the structure of the work.

The presentation of the portfolio "Symphony" at Grovers Mill Graphics is illustrative of another mode of combining the language arts with the visual. The Portfolio is the work of five printmakers and a poet who combine their images for a multi-dimensional, multi-media expression of the forms and emotions present during the symphonic experience.

Silk screen, etching, lithography and relief printing are the vehicles used to express visually the mood as well as the literary modes present in Jeff Laschever's poem. Trudy Glucksberg, Ann Gross, Joan Needham, Helen Schwartz and Marie Sturken have applied the media singly and in combination to support visually different sections of HAND-TINTED ENGRAVINGS, such as this bird by Sellgmann, are part of the current exhibit at the Eye for Art on Spring Street.

Laschever's work. The result is a combination of literal and musical imagery that is rendered in creative design forms and color modes.

Several works by each of the portfolio printmakers are included in the display. Again, many media are used in varying styles.

Notable is a collection of innovative prints by Trudy Glucksberg in which the artist has created printing surfaces from a number of materials not normally used in the graphic process. The works are well-designed applications of these new materials that are interesting for technical as well as artistic reasons.

At Gallery 100. A painter and two sculptors deal with traditional subject matter in diverse ways. Watercolor painter Dorothy Bissell demonstrates a range of approaches possible with watercolor. The collection spans several years and, as such, includes stylistic change that is accompanied by artistic growth.

Bissell has always been skillful with her medium, displaying a great deal of control in its presentation. Earlier works include a collection of seascapes and waterside studies that are well done but appear overly slick in comparison with later paintings. There are several works in this collection which display as much sensitivity as skill and a few that reveal a strong creative use of the medium. Several interpretations of the view at Poor Farm Road are not only well designed but enhanced by the development of exciting color passages that are creatively applied. In another mode, renditions of dandelions and wave studies display a sensitive way with paint and color.

A display of small figurative works by Jean Pasley offer contrast to this artist's more familiar vigorous portraits. Pasley appears to be working in a more finished manner. The smaller works are well rendered traditional pieces but do not carry the sense of drama and the presence of the artist which is noteworthy in the larger studies.

Cast bronze sculptures by Mary Adams Barrie reveal a stylistic variety that works against the overall effect of this artist's work. She demonstrates her skill with her materials but as a relatively recent arrival to her medium, has yet to settle into her own idiom. The variety of work displays indicates a good deal of ability with focus yet to come.

At The Eye For Art. Until recently, illustrated books produced during the 18th and 19th centuries were ignored by all save scholars and sophisticated collectors. The hand-tinted, carefully rendered plates that were part of these books were lightly valued and often found their way to disused attic corners.

Fortunately, interest in the expressions of the past have become more important to the general public as well as students of the esoteric. It is therefore possible to enjoy the visual pleasures inherent in antique books and the included artwork as they are more frequently exhibited.

The Eye For Art is featuring a collection of natural history illustrations collected from several European books of the 18th and 19th centuries. The subject matter is diverse and includes the Seligmann birds, ca 1850, Huber's butterflies created in 1784 and the Keiner studies of seashells dated 1812. Also on display are celestial charts created in England in 1822. The finely rendered sky charts have tinted personifications of the constellations superimposed upon the technical diagrams.

Since multi-color printing had not yet been perfected at the time of these books, they were hand-tinted in order to create a naturalistic effect. The combination of print, illustration and soft watercolor tints creates a rich effect.

At The Loft. Watercolor landscapes by Robert Eric Moore are skillfully rendered in a geometric manner. The artist reattains the essence of his subject, including a good deal of realistic detail but combines the imagery with geometric form to create an additional dimension. Muted color and careful use of paint support well structured compositions.

Wood sculpture by Douglas McIlvaine examines form in space. Large shapes developed from different woods are modeled, pierced and turned to interact with their surroundings. Some are based on nature forms while

ONE-WOMAN SHOW SET
At Grover's Mill Graphics.

West Windsor resident Patricia Tindall will have a one-woman show at Grover's Mill Graphics from September 25 through October 8. The public is invited to attend an opening day reception on Sunday the 25th.

Trained at Pratt Institute and Corcoran School of Art, Mrs. Tindall has never been very far from the art scene in some form. She was assistant to the art director at Opinion Research Corp. before marriage and continued her part-time career as a freelance commercial artist after marriage. She also began experimenting with oils, becoming well-known locally for her "homestead paintings" and her palette knife work won several awards at New Jersey shows.

For the past 13 years, she has been employed by the Department of Art and Archaeology at Princeton University.

In 1976, Mrs. Tindall fell under the spell of watercolor painting while studying with Vincent Ceglia at MCCC, and in the last year and a half she has also studied with Christopher Schink, Jeanne Dobie and as a member of the Princeton Art Association, with Nicolas Reale.

The result of this brief encounter with watercolor forms the nucleus of Mrs. Tindall's first one-woman show. She describes the exhibit as one of landmarks, landscapes and familiar things.

Grover's Mill Graphics is located at 164 Cranbury Neck Road, Princeton Junction. Regular gallery hours are 10 to 4, Monday through Saturday.

MINERAL SHOW SET

At Shopping Center. The Down To Earth Lapidary and Mineral Club will hold its fifth annual Mineral Show Saturday from 10-5 at the Princeton Shopping Center Mall. Featured at this special one day event will be some 20 dealers displaying all kinds of gems, minerals, fossils, lapidary supplies, and cutting and tumbling materials.

Club exhibits will include a display of New Jersey's world famous minerals, live demonstrations of gem cutting, and polishing, faceting and silversmithing. There will be a swap table where one can trade in old rocks and minerals for new models. One table will be devoted to homemade equipment.

For the kids, there will once again be the "Old Mine." Here, children can dig for minerals. There will also be a junior swap table where almost anything will be accepted for tumbler polished stones of all kinds.

For additional information, contact Leon Reuter, 33 Scott Avenue, Princeton Junction.

YEAR BEGINS

For League Nursery School. The University League Nursery School, 171 Broadmead, begins its 29th year this week as classes start for some 65 children, three to five years old. The students come from 11 countries, including Germany, France, Holland, Turkey and India, as well as from states ranging from Massachusetts to Oregon.

Classes meet four or five mornings per week, with an extended-day program enabling some children to stay at the school for lunch. The staff includes four master teachers, four assistant teachers and a special music instructor. Mrs. Mary Longman of Princeton is the director.

Organized on a cooperative basis, the school is operated by the students' parents, who assist in the classrooms, maintain school equipment and assist in building and grounds maintenance. Major policy decisions are made by an executive committee composed of parents, this year headed by president Lynne Geison of Princeton.

LEAFLET AVAILABLE

For League of Women Voters. A non-partisan leaflet containing comprehensive information for the November general election is now available from the Princeton Area League of Women Voters.

The leaflet, published annually by the State League of Women Voters to inform voters, is entitled "New Jersey Facts and Issues, Election '77," and includes facts not easily obtainable elsewhere.

Among the subjects covered this year are gubernatorial candidates information; a description of Senate and Assembly offices, including qualifications, salary, term and duties, along with a telephone number for additional information; and working and explanation of all constitutional questions and bond issues on the ballot.

Also, telephone numbers of the League of Women Voters, of state election agencies and of Republican and Democratic headquarters, facts on registration in New Jersey; and regulations dealing with absentee voting.

The leaflet may be ordered in quantity by businesses and organizations as well as singly by individuals by calling Sallie Jessor, 921-8106. A single copy costs 10 cents. The price is less for large orders.

DEADLINE NEAR

For Helikon Registration. This is the last week to register for Helikon's fall writing program which begins classes at the Unitarian Church in Princeton on October 1. Children's workshops include Poetry and Playmaking, grades K-1 and 1-2; Create-A-Book Workshop, grades 3-5; Story Illustration for grades 4 and up; Helikon Corner, a journalism workshop; for grades 5-8; and the Creative Writing Workshop for grades 6-9.

For high school students, who want a change from term papers and test essays, the Teenage Writing Workshop meets Saturday mornings from 10 to noon. Those interested may attend an open first session.

The adult program offers small group workshops both in day and evening sessions. The Women's Writing Workshop, on Tuesday mornings, will be led by Joyce Greenberg, a member of Poets and Writers and co-leader of the Writing Lab, Rutgers. For men and women, there's the Open Writing Workshop on Sunday evenings. It will be led by Dinna Linett, co-director of the New Jersey Writing Project, Rutgers.

All workshops are limited to 10 and provide group and individual response to help a writer shape his or her work. For more information, call 924-5782, 924-6504.

OPEN HOUSE SET

For History Teachers. The Historical Society of Princeton will play host to professors and teachers of history at a reception to be held on Tuesday from 4 to 5:30 at Bainbridge House. The occasion has been scheduled to introduce the teachers to the Historical Society and its resources - and to encourage them to stimulate their students in the exploration of local history.

"That's the one kind of history kids usually get excited about," explains student involvement chairman Tom Wertenbaker. "If their eyes are opened to it, they can see the town's past all around them." Mr. Wertenbaker points out that "The Historical Society will not be offering teachers any programs in local history that it has packaged. But we are eager to have them know about our library and the other resources we can offer."

Here's a strange -- but true -- football fact ... When Notre Dame played Kalamazoo College in a football game in 1923, Notre Dame dominated that game so much that Kalamazoo -- unbelievably -- got only 11 plays during the entire contest ... Notre Dame won 74-0, allowing the fewest plays to an opponent in any game in college or pro football history.

+++

When it comes to close games, nobody can match the record of the St. Louis Cardinals in the National Football League the last two seasons ... The Cardinals won five games in 1975 in the final minute of play, and last season, in 10 of their 14 games, the margin of victory was seven points or less.

In thinking about who'll win the Heisman Trophy this year as the best college football player in the nation, here's an interesting fact ... Although quarterbacks used to win the Heisman almost every year (seven times in 10 years from 1962 through 1971), no quarterback has won it since Pat Sullivan of Auburn in 1971 ... A running back has won the Heisman in each of the last five years, and it'll be interesting to see if that trend continues this season.

I bet you didn't know ... that our $10,000 deductible major medical with a $250,000 limit could cost a man age 50, wife age 48 and two children as little as $240 per year.

Tiger Football Team Hopes to End Two Long Losing Streaks In First Home Game of New Season Saturday against Rutgers

FAKE FOILS DEFENDERS: Kirby Lockhart (9), Princeton quarterback, still holding the ball as if he planned a pitchout, keeps possession on the option and beats two Dartmouth players into the end zone. Touchdown came in fourth quarter as Tigers fell short by 14 to 11.

Two streaks that Princeton would dearly like to bring to an end will be on the line Saturday when the Tigers open their home football season at 1:30 in Palmer Stadium against Rutgers. They have lost their last seven in a row -- dating back to October 16, 1976 -- and they have not won on their own field since they upset Rutgers in the first game of the 1975 season.

The odds that they will succeed are not great. The 14-to-11 loss to Dartmouth at Hanover last week showed the same inconsistency on offense that made last fall such a frustrating experience; their passing remains inept and they underscore its shortcomings by relying almost completely on their running game. Adding to their problems for Saturday is the eagerness that Rutgers will have to atone for the poor start of its own season by inflicting another defeat on its traditional rival.

While it was greatly to Princeton's credit that it closed much of the gap in its back-to-back meetings with Dartmouth (33-7 in the final game last fall), the loss was incurred because the Tigers have not developed a quarterback who can throw since Ron Beible rewrote the record book in his senior year two seasons ago. During the 2-7 campaign last fall, they averaged 85 yards in the air and completed just two for touchdowns.

Last Saturday, they totalled 57 yards, and until Kirby Lockhart launched three desperation passes from his own goal line with less than two minutes to go, had tried only five in a game that hung on willingness to put the ball in the air. Because of his previous experience, Lockhart played the entire afternoon, but on the bench is Ken Barrett, a sophomore whom Bob Casciola says has Ron Beible's potential. In a season when the 1976 offense isn't going to cut the mustard, Barrett's debut may not be far off.

Mistakes Are Costly. Although Dartmouth had more fumbles and lost more yardage in penalties than the Orange and Black, it was a pair of mistakes in these departments that played a large part in Princeton's defeat. Within a space of three punted into the end zone and Dartmouth proceeded to show them what a proper mixture of running and passing can do.

minutes in the third period, the Tigers (1) lost a first down they had made when tagged for illegal procedure; (2) fumbled and lost possession on the home team's two-yard line; (3) let them off the hook deep in their own territory by committing pass interference.

The Green took charge early, driving 80 yards toward the end of the first quarter for a touchdown in just eight plays. Two of three passes that junior Buddy Teevens threw were complete, the last covering 11 yards into the end zone for the score.

On Princeton's previous possession to that sequence, the Tigers had a second and then a third down on the Dartmouth 36 but were unwilling to pass on either occasion. When they could not gain on the ground, they

A fine kickoff return of 54 yards by sophomore Jeff Pyros gave Princeton the ball on the home team 33 but after six running plays and one incomplete pass, it was fourth and five on the 16 and Chris Howe booted a 33-yard field goal. The Tigers had another chance to score when they got the ball on their 20 but made little effort to kill the clock as they came downfield, and Howe's 47-yard field goal attempt in the final seconds was wide to the left.

A scoreless third period saw the Green change quarterback because Teevens was having trouble executing options on excursions around end. Senior Boh Ferraris may have won the job with his deft display at this art when he took the Green 80 yards for its second touchdown. Reportedly bothered by a sore shoulder, he nonetheless was 2-for-4 passing and if he throws well in the future, is likely to be Dartmouth's no. 1 quarterback.

From a 14-3 deficit, Princeton fought back to 14-11 when defensive end Tim Early recovered a fumble on the Green 23. Isom ran 19 yards on a draw and two plays later, Lockhart kept a pair of defenders guessing about his plans on a pitchout, held the ball and ran between them for the TD. A two-point conversion on a fine pass to tight end Frank Vuono left a field goal as the possibility for a tie but when Dartmouth unleashed a 61-yard punt to the Princeton 5, the Tigers and the clock gradually expired together.

Isom gained 112 yards on a field left slippery by the rain, and should have a standout senior year behind a line that is blocking better than the same personnel did a year ago. The Tiger defense yielded 309 yards, with the victors' fine fullback, Curt Oberg, picking up better than half (128) of the 213 they gained on the ground. Not unexpectedly, Princeton's rebuilt defensive line had its problems, and with Rutgers playing its fourth

QUICK LOOK AT RUTGERS

OFFENSE: Senior quarterback Bert Kosup led 36-point, 453-yard attack against Bucknell, after Scarlet had scored one touchdown in first two games. Knights have several good running backs.

DEFENSE: Early defeats attributable to loss of key players from last year, who held opponents to less than 8 points a game. Absence of top personnel best hope for Tigers.

CHIEF ASSET: Scarlet has been practicing two weeks longer and has played two more games than Princeton. A major plus in a September game.

CHIEF PROBLEM: Early defeats have resulted in several line-up changes, making mistakes by freshmen and sophomores a possibility.

game of the season Saturday, there is likely to be a greater assortment of play action thrown against it than the home team can match with its own unexplosive offense.

Rutgers Now 1-2. Rutgers found in the first 10 days of September that its superb 11-0 record of 1976 was even more worth treasuring than it had thought. Having maneuvered Penn State onto its schedule on September 2 to accelerate its move toward big-time football, the Scarlet lost predictably, but not by the predictable score of 45 to 7.

That ended the nation's longest winning streak at 18, and when Colgate gained revenge a week later for a loss last fall that was greatly facilitated by an official's erroneous decision, Rutgers had suffered its first back-to-back defeats at the beginning of a season since 1953. The Knights' highly-capable coach Frank Burns (whose four-year record is a bright 33-10-1) offered the summation: "We're playing poorly because I'm coaching poorly."

Although there were major losses from the fine defensive unit that turned back all comers a year ago, six of them are on hand again and seven regulars (including the entire backfield) have been available on offense. There were 31 lettermen in all, leading to expectations of another bright season.

It can, of course, still be achieved, because the defeats have come at the hands of the two toughest teams on the schedule. But Burns has said that the necessary cohesiveness is lacking, and late September is approaching with a number of personnel switches still being made.

Despite the fact that he was the starter in all 11 games last year, senior quarterback Bert Kosup was replaced at the outset of both the Penn State and Colgate games by junior Jeff Rebholz. K sup, however, was the choice in the 36-14 victory over Bucknell and Princeton is expected to see him first on Saturday.

Glen Kehier, Mark Lassiter and Mike Fisher, all lettermen with creditable performances in the past, are the principal running backs. Freshman Lester Johnson and Lassiter both scored twice against Bucknell. The placekicking chores were done efficiently last fall by Kennan Startzell, who converted twice and added a 26-yard field goal in the 17-0 victory the Knights took home from here, and he is back as a sophomore now.

Other Rutgers standouts are John Walling, a 6-5 230-lb. tight end who is the top returning receiver, and Jim Hughes, an outstanding linebacker. A strong group of freshmen is included on the roster, and they are, of course, eligible because virtually no one but the Ivy League still requires a season of preparation for varsity football.

Despite its increasing ability in recent years, Rutgers had had more trouble with the Tigers in the current decade than almost any of their opponents. The last seven games have been split, 3-3-1, and the knowledge that it must win Saturday to retain a shot at an enviable record will place added pressure on the visitors. Next year, incidentally, they will be the home team (at the Giants' Meadowlands stadium), playing host for only the third time in the 109-year old rivalry.

EASIER FOE AHEAD

For PDS Football Team. Nobody likes getting whipped 36-3, especially after a 46-0 rout the previous year, but there are a couple of positive observations that can be made that might cheer up Princeton Day partisans saddened by the Panthers' loss to Chestnut Hill Academy Friday afternoon.

Without question, the Pennsylvania team is the toughest the Blue and White will face all season. No opponent will come close to having the potent backfield that enabled the visitors to sweep around the PDS defense almost at will.

The Panthers also will have a chance to work at correcting some of the grievous errors that cost them dearly early in the game, before beginning play in the new "no-name" league this Saturday. Englewood, one of the six teams that formed the league with PDS after last season, will meet the Blue and White on its own field.

Last year, the Blue and White players picked themselves up handsomely after the Chestnut Hill pasting and hounded back to beat Englewood, 21-8. Blessed with more experience, this year's squad hopefully will be able to put on a repeat performance.

Coch Bob Hoffman, who watched Englewood easily defeat Morristown-Beard on Saturday in its season's opener, was highly optimistic the Panthers would be able to rebound. "I think we're a better team," Hoffman said.

Disappointed as he was with PDS's showing Friday, Hoffman spoke of the positive aspects of the game. "It was really two games in one. The first ended at the half, and then in the second half we were able to go out and accomplish some things."

"Chris Price ran well in the second half and we were able to get our passing game going a bit."

Winners Start Quickly. The Princeton Day defense had hopes to be able to clamp down on the Chestnut Hill speedsters, but the game wasn't more than 12 seconds old before that notion was dispelled. Tom Trullinger took PDS's opening kickoff around his 20, broke a couple of tackles around his 35 and scampered the rest of the way untouched to the Panther end zone. The visitors' point after try split the uprights and PDS was quickly behind, 7-0.

In its first series from scrimmage, PDS could not make a first down, and had to punt. Chestnut Hill was also stopped on its first series, and the Panthers got a big break when Pat deMaynadier broke through to block the fourth down punt.

PDS had the ball first and 10 from the Chestnut Hill 27 and its premier running back Rob Olsson moved it quickly down to the 15, where PDS had another first down. Two more running plays gained nine yards and the Panthers had third and one from the six. Here quarterback Jeff Freda was thrown for a five-yard loss on a busted play.

Now with fourth and six, Hoffman elected to go for three points and placekicker Chris Price responded with a 27-yard field goal with 3:12 left in the quarter. It was a smart move and at least averted another shutout.

On visitors' next series, Tito Nanni their tall quarterback found great success with the option, pitching out once to halfback George Bailey for one good gain, and then going all the way down to the PDS eight-yard line on a keeper. A couple of plays later he took it over the goal line, and after a two-point conversion, Chestnut Hill led 15-3.

The visitors third score was even easier. Hoffman had elected to have the snap from center on punts go back to kicker Dave Barondess via a lateral, but alas this, too, went astray, and Chestnut Hill recovered on the PDS 15. Two plays later, it was 22-3.

Misfortunes, continued to pile up. After failing to move the ball on the next series, the Panthers again handed the ball over deep in their own territory when a fourth-down punt went only three yards. A minute or so later Nanni floated a pitchout to Bailey, who flew untouched around right end for a 40-yard score. The 29-3 halftime score pretty much ended matters right there, but just before the half ended, Hoffman showed he is a thinking coach. With Barondess out with a sprained ankle, he had Price "attempt" a 90-yard field goal from the PDS 20-yard line. Actually, it was just a more successful way of kicking out of trouble as Price's kick travelled into Chestnut Hill territory.

PDS controlled the ball the majority of the second half, allowing Chestnut Hill only one more touchdown, but control isn't enough when you're four touchdowns behind. "We do well behind the 20-yard lines," Hoffman said. "But we have trouble scoring and controlling the ball goes against us when we are behind." PDS definitely has a grind it out type of offense.

PHS EDGED, 3-2

By PDS in Soccer. "Half of the goals in soccer don't look spectacular. Just as many dribble over the goal but they count just as much as those that go in 50 miles an hour—and you have to work just as hard for them."

PHS coach Ed Beacham was shaking his head Friday after he watched his Little Tigers surrender two dribbler goals and a penalty kick to Mike Walters, the Princeton Day scoring standout, in losing their opener to the Panthers, 3-2. "We shouldn't have lost, but it was a well played game. You can't take it away from them; they have a good ball club."

Two minutes into the game Pat Gauthier gave PHS a 1-0 lead but Walters tied it four and a half minutes later. Then at the half-way point in the second period, Hon Celestine scored THE goal of the game. Dribbling around three PDS defenders, he unloaded a bullet into a corner of the net.

Walters, however, evened it at 2 again when he converted a penalty kick that was called on a hand-ball by PHS fullback Tom Bolster, and 30 seconds into the final period, Walters scored again when PHS goalie Sandy Howell was unable to control his shot and the ball rolled in the corner of the net.

"This is the first club I've had that, when it got behind, didn't quit," commented Beacham. "We must have had eight or nine shots on goal in the final period. We're working hard, we just have to get over that hump."

Turnaround Predicted. Beacham, who has been with the PHS soccer program the past five years and is starting his second season as head coach, predicts an improvement over last year when the Little Tigers finished 4-12-1. "We have a lot coming back. I think we can turn it all around to 12-4-1." He lost only one starting senior—Louis Snijders.

In fact, it is all starting to come together. Princeton now has a junior soccer program that is attracting hundreds of youngsters. PHS hasn't enjoyed any benefits yet — Beacham says that is four to five years away — but the impact could be dramatic when it comes. "Normally, they don't start playing the game until they're freshmen," Beacham stated.

The resurgence of soccer at PHS is underlined by numbers alone. Beacham reports he has 76 players out for the varsity, jayvee and freshman teams. "Three years ago we had 35 — and you need 33 just to play."

"It probably has a lot to do with Pele," he said, joining those who agree that Pele, star of the New York Cosmos and probably the world's best known soccer player, has made this country soccer-conscious.

Beacham's optimism about the current 17-game schedule is based not only on returning strength but a fine showing in two scrimmages against Hillsboro (8-0) and Peddie (6-0). Taking note of the 14 goals, Beacham remarked, "We only scored 17 all last season. This is the best squad since I've been here."

Beacham also believes that he has some individual stars that will make PHS a contender in the Colonial Valley Conference.

From Haiti comes Celestine, who started last year as a freshman and is, in Beacham's estimation, "the best center forward in the whole county. A super soccer player."

International Lineup. Also from Haiti is Noel Gauntlett, a junior midfielder, and from France, giving the PHS squad a decided international flair, is Gautier, a senior wing.

Co-captains are Dave Wilson, an all-conference selection, who returns as sweeper back and Pierre Muri, a wing, one of six starting seniors. Sandy Howell is back for the third year as goalie.

Other starters are John Miller, all-conference, Joel Schulman, sophomore John Tevebaugh — all midfielders, and fullbacks Dan Miller and Bolster.

If PHS is going to make its move in soccer — it has been notoriously weak in the sport for years — it must overcome Lawrence High, the perennial conference team-to-beat. In addition, Hopewell Valley did not lose a single player, and its aggressive coach, Jim Loper, has made it clear that the Bulldogs will not be satisfied with anything less than the championship this year.

PHS STOPPED, 2-1

By Hun in Soccer. Princeton High soccer coach Ed Beacham is hoping his team ends up with a better average than the shooting average his Little Tigers compiled Monday in a 2-1 loss to Hun.

PHS took 47 shots on goal but only one went in, a second period tally by Ron Celestine on a cross by Chris King. That gave the Little Tigers a half-time lead but they weren't able to hold it as left wing Chris Dollard of Hun scored twice for the home team Red and Black in the third period.

Princeton High School Seeking Scoring Punch As It Prepares to Open Saturday at Lakewood

(This is the last of three articles on prospects of the 1977 PHS football team.)

What is the outlook for the current Princeton High School football team which will open its season Saturday at Lakewood at 1:30.

In a word, "guarded."

After two more scrimmages - South Brunswick Wednesday (dead even) and Freehold Borough Saturday (PHS got stomped) - PHS coach Jim Beachell saw nothing that would cause him to throw up his hands in despair. But neither did he see anything to get excited about. "No one was outstanding. I wish someone had been," he said.

"I was impressed with some hitters but I was not impressed with our knowledge of the game," he added.

Nor could anyone fault Beachell for failing to feel enthusiastic about the offense, which failed to score in any of the three scrimmages. In fact, the staff has been working so hard with the offense that it hasn't been able to put any emphasis on defense, to the latter's detriment.

Despite all the minuses, Beachell reported that he has been able to see some highlights, too. "I still feel good about trying to break it over .500," he said. Last year, PHS shared the first Colonial Valley Conference championship with Notre Dame and finished 6-3, Beachell's best mark in his three years as head coach.

Despite 17 returning lettermen, PHS does not have a single starter over 200 pounds. A Group 2 school, PHS in contests against Ewing, which it meets after Lakewood, and Trenton, usually sustains a physical beating, even if it wins. Both are Group 4 schools.

"I don't know how much longer we can keep playing the larger schools," said Beachell.

As for this season, it will all come down, he predicted, "to the determination of the kids. Our overall quickness. We're not super-fast but we could break one. Just being consistent -- that's the only way we'll be able to take it all."

Starting Offense. Veteran Cory Easter will start for PHS at center, with Cal Harris an able backup. Brian Cleveland will be on one side of Easter and Ian Briadwater, a sophomore, on the other at guard. The tackles are Andre Intartaglia and Karim El-Meligi. At split end will be one of two juniors, Tom Lion or Tom Riemann and at tight end, veteran Chris Cahill.

As expected, Keith Wadsworth and Bobby Campbell will return at fullback and wingback, respectively, where both earned letters last year. Daryl Grisham will start at tailback, although Beachell reported he can switch at any time to Barry Turner, whom he would prefer to platoon on defense.

Dave Miller gets the nod at quarterback. But in all probability Beachell will try Tom Seiler there, too. Look for the Little Tigers to require a couple of games before the troublesome quarterback problem is resolved.

Beachell conceded that the passing game is weak but improving all the time. "We haven't tried to press it that much." The running game has been good but inconsistent.

Tough Opener. The meeting with Lakewood will be the second and last for the Little Tigers, who dropped a 28-0 decision to the Piners last fall. Lakewood will be replaced by Allentown, a new Colonial Valley Conference member, next year.

As to what to expect, Beachell sees the encounter pretty much up in the air. Lakewood has installed a new coach and a new system, he reported, and the two schools have an agreement not to scout each other.

Since Lakewood has films of last year's contest, "they know more about us than we do about them," Beachell said. Lakewood, he added, has lost its entire backfield except fullback through graduation, but the line was not hit as hard.

"It's going to be a tough game. Right away, we'll have an hour's bus ride, so it will probably be a slow start for us. From then on it will depend on how hungry the kids are."

Both teams battled through a scoreless first half at Princeton last year. Then Lakewood took advantage of some PHS mistakes for its first TD, ran a short punt back for another less than two minutes later and gained the momentum while PHS began to fall apart. Of the 28 points, Beachell saw only seven by Lakewood as "honest." Lakewood is a Group 3 school.

Schedule No Help. For PHS, which needs every bit of assistance it can gather, the schedule offers no help. Only a third of the nine games are at home. PHS will face Ewing next and Hun before opening at home October 15 against Hightstown. The other two home games are St. Anthony's (Oct. 29) and Lawrence (Nov. 5).

Beachell is not concerned, however. "The kids don't seem to mind playing away," he said. We don't have that much of a home advantage when you come down to it," alluding to Princeton High's notorious poor sports attendance.

Following is a quick run down on Princeton's remaining eight foes as Beachell views them.

Ewing. The Blue Devils stopped PHS, 13-6, last year and went on to compile a 7-3 record and finish second to Woodbridge for the Group 4 Central Jersey state championship. "They have all the kids they need, they have the numbers for another good year," says Beachell. For some reason, PHS has had a hex over the bigger Blue Devils; last year's win was the first for Ewing over PHS in six years. Predicts Beachell: "They'll be out to even the score."

Hun. Post-grad players always make Hun an unknown, in Beachell's opinion. He is aware they have a standout lineman in Bob Cronin, but Hun has never defeated PHS. "I don't plan to start now," says Beachell.

Hightstown. The largest school in the conference, benefiter of a midget football feeder program and still the team to beat in the conference, Beachell believes, despite the loss of its starting quarterback due to an industrial accident this summer. The Rams ended with the same 6-3 mark PHS did but were shocked when PHS upset them 7-0 last year on a TD run by Grisham. "They'll be out to get us," said Beachell.

West Windsor. Beachell sees the Pirates as a dark horse, which has some good backs returning. They'll be even more potent if they can find a replacement for their fine quarterback, Dave Watson. "It's so hard to tell in this league," Beachell continued. "I don't think you can count on any game, it's so balanced. That's why I like it."

St. Anthony's. A red flag for PHS. Three years in a row the Iron Mikes have upset PHS. Last year, the PHS team was involved in a bus accident enroute to the game. The game was played after a few hours delay, but Beachell says now, "We never should have played it. Physically, they are probably the biggest team in the conference." PHS wants this one badly.

Lawrence. The Cardinals suffered through a poor season when a number of their players got hurt. This year, they should have a good team, predicts Beachell, including an outstanding fullback and the only returning varsity quarterback in the league.

Notre Dame. After a couple of disastrous seasons, Notre Dame started to win last year under coach Chappy Moore, so Princeton's 18-16 victory over the surging Irish was one of its most satisfying. Notre Dame also benefits from being able to recruit from all the surrounding school districts. Two of its starters this year, Beachell pointed out, live in Princeton.

Trenton. The Tornados have a new coach in Billy Harvin, plus size, speed and a lot of potential in Beachell's view. Trenton may be dominant in basketball but it has been an embarrassment on the gridiron. It can only improve and Beachell hopes it isn't at Princeton's expense. Trenton is overdue, too, against Princeton, which has been able to win in the last few minutes the previous two years. Last year, the score was 15-14. This may be the last meeting between the two ancient rivals, says Beachell.

His first was on a breakaway, a clean shot that beat PHS goalie Sandy Howell. The second was less artistic, coming off a melee in front of the goal but it proved to be the winner.

PHS dominated play in the final period but Hun goalie Ron Whalen was superb in the net with 38 saves. Howell was credited with 18.

PHS scored what appeared to the game's first goal in the initial period, but an official ruled that Princeton had interfered with the goalie while the shot went in and disallowed it. The victory was Hun's first in two starts, Princeton's second defeat without a win.

CROSS COUNTRY RUNNERS: Two seniors on the Princeton High School cross country team that will see action this fall are Robert Wyland (left) and Oscar Brown, a transfer student from Trenton High. Larry Ivan is the coach.

SEASON UNDERWAY
For PHS Cross Country Team. The Princeton High School cross country team, which opened a 17-duel meet season this week, is hoping it can improve on last year's 5-12 record.

Champions last year in the Colonial Valley Conference, of which PHS is a member, was Hopewell Valley which has dominated cross country competition the past few years. "They'll be strong again. They have a lot of returning runners and they should have an excellent team this year," commented PHS coach Larry Ivan about Hopewell.

As for his own team, Ivan predicts it will be an interesting season. "We're doing very well. We should be as strong as last year. We'll give them a run for their money," he concluded with a straight face.

IT'S A GOOD START
For PHS Soccer Team. It's tough when perhaps the biggest game you'll play all season is first on the schedule, but the Princeton Day soccer team showed some mid-season form last Friday as it nipped a fine Princeton High team, 3-2.

The Panthers had to come from behind twice in the contest, but an early fourth period goal by senior Mike Walters put them ahead for the first time and they held on to win.

The Panthers twice had to come from behind in the hard-played contest, and then stood off a determined challenge by the PHS attack the last 10 minutes. Also playing its first game, Princeton High matched PDS in every department, except goals scored.

And once again, the toe of Mike Walters, who has an incredible knack for getting the ball into the net one way or another, proved the difference. Walters scored all three goals for the Blue and White.

His first came after PHS had taken a 1-0 lead in the first period. His second on a penalty kick in the third quarter tied the game at 2-2. Ralph Ross had actually taken the penalty kick and made it, but the goal was disallowed, because the shot came before the referee had blown his whistle. Coach Tom DeVito had Walters take the shot the second time to "keep the PHS goalie guessing."

The score remained tied until early in the fourth, when Walters scored on a little dribbler that just eluded the grasp of the PHS goalie. "Wally had meant to kick it much harder, but he took his eye off it and mis-kicked it," DeVito said.

Gaining the one-goal advantage, the Panthers went into a prevent defense, as an aroused Princeton High team made one charge after another on the PDS goal. With starting goalie Johnny Rodgers sidelined by a back injury, sophomore Tony Dale proved equal to the task, making several fine saves.

DeVito had praise for two sophomores halfbacks Jono Rush and Larry Pierson, who both played well, in addition to junior Doug Fine at fullback and Joe Lapsley, who played against his old teammates.

This Wednesday, PDS will meet Morristown-Beard at home, and Friday will journey to George School.

WEST WINDSOR AT HOME
For Football Opener. The West Windsor football team will open its season Saturday at home when it entertains Mt. Lakes in a 1:30 contest.

Mountain Lakes has a reputation of being a football power, reports West Windsor coach Rex Walker, who nonetheless says that perhaps it's just as well to get the tough one out of the way early. The following week, WW will travel to Lawrence for its first Colonial Valley Conference game.

Walker has joined a few others in the area when he complains of a lack of depth. From 16 returning lettermen, he is experimenting with moving halfback Ron Dilatush to quarterback to fill the hole left by Dave Watson, a fine passer who graduated.

NEW TEAM PLANNED
In Platform Tennis. The Princeton Recreation Department has announced that there will be two platform tennis teams representing Community Park this fall. In addition to the "A" flight team, an additional "B" will be formed.

Try-outs for the "A" team will be held at the Community Park Courts Monday morning, October 3, at 9:30. Applicants must be willing to commit themselves to match play on Tuesday mornings throughout the fall and winter months.

"B" team try-outs will be held the same time and place on Tuesday morning. "B" team matches will also be played on Tuesdays with all rain dates on Wednesdays.

Those named to both teams will begin workouts on Monday, October 10th at 9:30. If either or both try-outs are rained out, make-up will be held Wednesday morning, October 5, at 9:30.

Try-outs for the two state competition teams are limited to Princeton residents or season ticket holders. For additional information, call 921-9480.

HUN VS. NEWARK

In Grid Opener. The Hun School football team, hoping for a much better record than the 1-7 mark it posted last year, will open its 1977 season Saturday at 1:30 against Newark Academy in Livingston.

In last year's opener, Hun dropped a 15-12 decision to Newark. "We let it get away from us and we would like to make a good start this year," said Leete.

Hun coaches scouted Newark in a Saturday scrimmage with Orange High School which ended 6-6. "They have good size, a good quarterback and a couple of good running backs, but I would say they are no better than we are," said Leete. They have a few more players—it will depend on who gets tired first."

Asked about the outcome, Leete replied that he was optimistic—"as long as we don't get hurt." Hun has a thin squad and any injury to any starter would hurt. In fact, 6-4, 200-lb. end Tom West has already been hurt in pre-season play and Leete said whether he would be ready for the opener "will be close."

Leete will start Sal Ammirata at center, Scott Zahn and Dwight Hallett at guard and A.J. Knepp and captain Bob Cronin at tackle. Mark DeLorenzo will be at one end and either West or senior Doug Heurtematte at the other flank.

Halfbacks will be Tony Adams and Craig Darvin; Matt Roach will be at fullback, while quarterback is still a tossup between veteran Brian Lee and newcomer E.T. Roach.

In two scrimmages of its own, Hun played St. Anthony even and then held a good Notre Dame squad even after surrendering two early scores. "I saw some good things," said Leete.

Cronin, he said, played very well in both scrimmages. "He was unstoppable on defense. He really wants to play."

Cronin is a Princeton resident.

PHS EASY WINNER

In Tennis Opener. Lead by Karen Clark, the Princeton High girls tennis team opened a 16-match season Friday with an easy 4-1 win over Steinert. Clark, the number one singles, needed only 20 minutes to dispose of Pam Fera, 6-0, 6-0, in what coach Bill Humes described as "one of the fastest matches I've ever seen."

Vicki Philips won 6-2, 1-6, 6-2 but the Spartans gained their only point when Beth Ellis, the number three singles, lost 4-6, 3-6. In doubles play, Diane Aronovic and Debbie Blair triumphed, 6-1, 6-2, and Julie Heeg and Carol Ludlum won, 6-0, 6-2.

"Even though the scores look lopsided, the talent at Steinert is getting better and better," Humes commented. "With the advent of indoor tennis centers and tennis programs, I don't know how much longer we can dominate."

Outlook for 1977? What is the outlook for the team this year, which won the Colonial Valley Conference last fall and then advanced to the semi-finals of the state tournament before being eliminated to finish with a fine 21-1 mark.

For Humes, the outlook is "quite good."

In Clark he has, he says, "probably the best player in Mercer County at this point." Phillips, like Clark a senior, is accomplished singles player and both Aronovic and Ellis give him a strong No. 3 tender.

Twin sisters, Lisa and Sarah Merians, transfer students from Edison, who played for Wardlaw-Hartridge School, have been a welcome surprise. "They will give us plenty of depth in the doubles where I felt we were lacking last year when it came down to the tournaments," said Humes. They are juniors.

Blair, a sophomore, and Heeg, a junior, are also expected to see action in doubles play. Others on the team are seniors Jane Arrington and Ludlum and two freshmen, Jennifer Flynn and Melanie Goldfeld. In all, 22 have tried out for the squad.

PDS GIRLS BEATEN

By Hamilton High. The Hamilton High School girls soccer team is brand new this year, but its obvious most of the team members are not new to the sport.

Tennis players of all ages and abilities are invited to take advantage of free lessons offered from 5 to 6 each day through Friday at the Princeton Racquet Club on Raymond Road.

Dennis Van der Meer of the California based Van der Meer "tennis university" is presenting a course for tennis teachers all this week. Some 36 tennis pros from all over the world will be taking part in all-day sessions. Part of the instruction is an on-court lesson by each teacher to a "live" student.

Those who wish to volunteer should call 924-9191 to make arrangements.

teams, the Hornets beat Princeton Day girls, 6-1, last Friday in the season's opener for both teams.

"We played as well as we could have at this point in the season," commented coach Alan Taback. "But our inexperience definitely showed."

The Panthers managed to keep matters close for the first half. After Hamilton gained a 1-0 advantage early in the contest, Catherine Ferrante scored to tie it 1-1. Hamilton led only 2-1 at the half, scoring once in the second period.

However, it was all visitors after the intermission, as the Hornets scored two in each of the remaining quarters. Taback cited the play of senior center halfback Bethlin Thompson, out for the sport for the first time, as one of the pleasant surprises of the game.

PDS will meet J.P. Stevens at home this Friday and Princeton High at home next Friday.

HUCKEL NEW COACH

Of Hun Soccer Team. After two years as a head soccer coach in Colorado, Jack Huckel has moved on to the Hun School, where he hopes to improve last year's 6-6-2 record.

Over the weekend, Hun participated in a Penn-Jersey League tournament at George School in Newtown, Pa. where all eight league members opposed each other in 16-minute contests. Hun finished second with 9 points behind Friends Central (11), the only squad to beat Hun.

The outlook for the Red and Black booters seems "pretty good, if this is any measure of what the other teams look like," commented Huckel. "We improved as the day went on."

Going with a lineup that has seven seniors, two juniors and two sophomores, Hun was edged, 3-2, in its opener Friday by Montclair - Kimberly.

Hun's left striker, Chris Dollard, opened the scoring and then after the visitors tied it, Hun went ahead again on an indirect free kick pass from Fred Wollman to John Muscenti.

Montclair, however, managed to score twice more, taking advantage of two instances of faulty coverage by the Hun backs.

Co-captains are Wollman and Jim Whelan. Jim's brother, Bob Whelan is goalie.

The backs are Peter Eu, Mike Korrani, Ken Zeitlar and Wollman; the mid line, Angelo Barbero, Eduardo Riviero, Rick Arenas, and the front line Bob Innocenzi, Whalen and Dollard. Last year, Hun ranked fourth in the N.J. Class A. Prep School Tournament.

FINAL ROUND NEARS

In Springdale Tournament. Harold Crane will face Charlie Bardwell and Willard Starks will play Jack Sweeney Saturday at Springdale Golf Club in the semi-final round of the President's Cup Tournament. The winners will meet Sunday for the trophy.

In action last weekend, Crane won, 4 and 3, from George Keilner after the latter had defeated Frank Dick, 1 up. Crane had advanced earlier with a 4-and-3 triumph over Frank Crecca.

Bardwell defeated Karl Pettit, Jr., 3 and 2, and then won the next day from Joe Masick, 2 up. Masick won his Saturday match from Ross Shrader on the 19th hole.

Starks eliminated Dean Chace, 1 up and then ousted Moore Gates Jr., 4 and 3. Gates won Saturday on the 19th hole from Bill Quackenbush.

Sweeney was a victor by 6 and 4 in matches with Bill Rosso and John Miller. Miller had won his first match last weekend from Bill Pearce, 4 and 3.
